Council Committee Named To Study Armory Proposal

A committee of three Circleville Councilmen will serve as a fact-finding body on a proposal calling for the city to purchase the Ohio National Guard Armory on E. Franklin St.

The investigative panel was appointed during a lengthy discussion Tuesday night on the matter. The committee approach was approved after councilman Robert Turner urged council to take some sort of action on the armory issue.

"Much confusion has been created here concerning the purchase proposal," Turner said. "It should be cleared up as soon as possible."

A suggestion to name a three-man committee for study purposes was advanced by Council President Harold Clifton. A motion to this effect, offered by Frank Barnhill, was approved by a show of hands vote.

THE COUNCIL president named Joseph Bell, John Jenkins and Barnhill to serve on the exploratory body. They are chairmen of council's service, safety and finance committees respectively.

Bell will serve as chairman for the group. The committee was urged to report on its findings as soon as possible.

Although the action represents council interest in the purchase plan, some observers feel the move is too late. This seems to be one of the sentiments expressed by Col. William Totman, a representative of the Ohio Adjutant General's Office and the officer in charge of the Armory sale procedure who was present at last night's session.

Col. Totman explained that a bill providing for sale of the building has been introduced before the Ohio Senate. The appraised value of the structure is $85,000, although it has been offered to the city for $70,000.

Totman indicated the city would have to act quickly if it hopes to take advantage of the sale option which runs to June 31. He noted that council has enacted no legislation of intent to date.

Richard Gerhardt, a Democrat candidate for mayor, earlier this month charged Clifton with delaying tactics to jeopardize chances of securing the building.

Solons Extend Recognition For Firefighting Assistance

Circleville Council Tuesday night authorized the sending of official letters of praise to the numerous fire departments that provided valuable assistance during Saturday's explosion-fire on W. Main St.

A motion to this effect was offered by Councilman Keith Wagner. It was unanimously approved.

On hand to aid local firemen in battling the raging inferno were volunteer units from Ashville, Williamsport, Stoutsville, Laurelville and a detachment from Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Circleville Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe said he would make a close check to assure recognition is extended to all who helped.

Roundtown

THE OHIO SENATE has adopted a resolution congratulating William (Bill) Richards on his selection as one of America's four outstanding young farmers by the United States Jaycees.

The proclamation-type resolution was presented by Harry Armstrong, senator from this district. It notes that Richards' accomplishments exemplify the outstanding qualities of Ohio farmers.

The proclamation also points out that the Route 2 farmer is the first Ohioan to be named to the elite agriculture selection.

Copies of the resolution are to be forwarded to Richards and the Circleville Jaycees.

Additional recognition will be extended to the outstanding young farmer Saturday. An open house in his honor is set for 7 p. m. at the First Methodist Church.

THE PICKAWAY County Commissioners today received a telegram from Gov. James A. Rhodes, inviting them, the local airport committee, municipal officials and any other interested persons to attend a meeting concerning financial assistance for present and proposed airports.

The meeting is scheduled 10 a. m. Friday in the Arts and Crafts Auditorium at the Ohio State Fairgrounds, Columbus.

"FREE DAY" will be observed Friday at the Pickaway County Public Library. Those with overdue books may return them with no penalty imposed. The gesture is part of National Library Week now being celebrated.

Court Decides Beards Have Right To Grow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul S. Finot isn't Abraham Lincoln, or Socrates, or even John Muir, the naturalist. But he has the right to wear a beard in emulation of all three.

So rules California's 2nd District Court of Appeal.

The court, in reversing a Superior Court ruling Tuesday, says the U.S. Constitution gives male school teachers the right to wear beards in the classroom.

"A beard, for a man, is an expression of his personality," wrote Justice James J. Cobey in a scholarly, 21-page opinion.

"On the one hand it has been interpreted as a symbol of masculinity, of authority and of wisdom. On the other hand, it has been interpreted as a symbol of nonconformity and rebellion.

"But symbols, under appropriate circumstances, merit constitutional protection."

Finot, 43, sports a Van Dyke beard and mustache. In 1963 school officials at Pasadena reassigned him from his 12th-grade government class to home tutoring because he refused to shave off the beard.

When informed of the court's decision, Finot exclaimed, "It's just wonderful — gosh, it's been a long wait — 3½ years."

He never once considered "the beard more important than teaching," said Finot, adding "the principle at stake was that teachers should have the right to a private existence — or even first class citizenship."

Meanwhile, formal extradition papers asking Novels' return to Louisiana arrived at Gov. James A. Rhodes' office Tuesday.

Trucking Co. Sues For Work Stoppage
CINCINNATI (AP) — The McLean Trucking Co. of suburban Sharonville has filed a $1 million damage suit against Local 100 of the Teamsters' Union in connection with a work stoppage that has continued since a "three-day national lockout by some trucking firms ended on April 12."

The work stoppage began after there was an agreement on a new national Teamsters' contract.

The Louisiana man claimed to have worked for Garrison as chief of his security section. "Electronics was my field," he has said.

The Senate bills would prohibit wiretapping and electronic bugging and would ban eavesdropping on private conversations.

Novel, free on $10,000 bond on a fugitive charge filed by Garrison, claims to have invented a device "guaranteed to black out eavesdropping and 'bugs' and protect conversations."

Officials have confirmed that Novel, 29, sold both "bugging" and "anti-bugging" equipment to the office of Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen. The anti-bugging equipment purchase grew out of a report that the governor's office was being invaded with electronic listening devices.

Novel claims it was while he was in "the surveillance and anti-surveillance business" that he met both Garrison and McKeithen.

In Retrospect

A COMMUNITY mourns its loss. This was most evident during today's funeral services for Mr. Charles Schieber and Mr. Ted Foster, killed in Saturday's tragic disaster.

A CAPACITY throng filled the First Methodist Church where joint services were conducted at 10:30 a. m. Many stores closed their doors so employees could pay their last respect to the two men.

AMERICAN FLAGS were raised throughout the city early today as a final tribute. The funeral procession followed a special route through the downtown section as a final tribute to two men who had been a part of the local business scene for numerous years. The Foreman chimes were played in salute.

THE FLAG observance was handled by Ernil Stonerock and the local American Legion Post. Both Mr. Schieber and Mr. Foster were veterans.

POLICE and other observers have no doubt Mr. Schieber and Mr. Foster were the true heroes of Saturday's calamity. Their effort to dispose of the bomb, carried into the store by Lee Holbrook, by way of a rear exit was fatal. Many feel they could have reached the front door in time. But the death toll probably would have been greater if the explosive device had been tossed onto Main St.

MR. SCHIEBER and Mr. Foster could have sought safety by merely removing themselves from the area of the bomb. But their first

NAACP Makes March Plans In Massillon

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Groundwork for a march in Massillon protesting the outbreak of fighting between Negro and white youths here has been laid by leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Herman Robinson, president of the Massillon branch of the NAACP, said the final decision on the march would be made by William Hardy of Indianapolis, NAACP regional director.

Apparent friction between Negro and white pupils at Washington High School triggered the fighting Monday night that spilled into the downtown area and the school parking lot.

The Highway Patrol estimated 500 youths roamed the area during four hours of fighting, leading to 23 arrests.

Robinson said Hardy also would be asked to consider requesting an investigation by the U.S. Justice Department of racial unrest here.

Anders Johnson of Canton, head of the Youth Council of the Stark County NAACP branch, said the march, if approved, also would protest what he called unfair employment practices in Massillon, housing and police protection.

Mayor William J. Keen urged parents in a radio broadcast Tuesday to keep their teenage children off the streets Tuesday night and announced a crackdown in curfew enforcement. No trouble was reported during the night.

thoughts must have been to carry it to the place where it would do the least harm.

INVESTIGATORS also feel the bomb could have been thrown out the back door if Holbrook had not interfered. The local feed mill employee grappled with both Mr. Schieber and Mr. Foster, according to witnesses.

A GRIEF-STRIKEN community can only assume Holbrook believed his estranged wife was in the store when he walked in with the bomb. The man's actual reasoning probably never will be known.

THE BODY of Mr. Schieber was to be buried today at Bucyrus in his native Crawford County. Mr. Foster, born in Portsmouth, was laid to rest here in Forest Cemetery.

Ohio Employee Pay Raise Vote Near

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A major bill hiking the pay of about 45,000 state employees apparently will be approved by the legislature before the May 2 primary election.

The Senate Finance Committee voted 8-1 Tuesday night to recommend passage of the big money bill but acted after adding more than 100 amendments suggested by a subcommittee.

Legislative leaders said a floor vote on the measure probably will come early next week. A favorable vote would return the measure to the house for consideration of the Senate amendments.

Except for nurses, hospital attendants and some employees in so-called critical areas, the increases would not take effect until July 1. Critical area increases would become effective immediately.

The bill, which cost an estimated $47 million for the two years beginning July 1, provides for a 10 per cent increase on that date and an additional 5

Mihajlov Jailed In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP) — Mihajlo Mihajlov, a university lecturer who raised a lonely voice against Yugoslavia's Communist regime, was convicted today of "spreading hostile propaganda" against the country. He was sentenced to 4½ years in prison.

Mihajlov was convicted and sentenced by a judge and two jurors after a two-day trial in the Belgrade District Court. More than 60 persons jammed into the tiny courtroom and others crowded the halls to hear the verdict. It was greeted with total silence.

It was Mihajlov's third conviction in two years of trouble with President Tito's regime over his writings, some published at home and some abroad. He has been an outspoken foe of the Communist one party system, denouncing it both in his writing and from the witness stand in court.

Germans Mourn Adenauer Death

Yanks Are Ready To Step Up War

SAIGON (AP) — American pilots took advantage of a break in the weather Tuesday afternoon to give North Vietnam its second worst bombing this year and to attack the showpiece Thai Nguyen steel plant for the 10th time.

The American airmen hit the north with 145 missions. The sudden upsurge indicated that the high command is ready to step up the war in the north immediately when any break in the monsoon weather permits.

The Thai Nguyen steel plant and railroad yards 38 miles north of Hanoi was hit by a task force held ready for the break in the weather. When it came, Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and F4C Phantoms streaked into the Hanoi-Haiphong-Thai Nguyen triangle which is guarded by an iron ring of radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns and Soviet-built surface to air missiles.

While specially equipped planes peeled off to hit the anti-aircraft revetments and camouflaged SAM sites, other raiders plunged through a hail of fire over the steel plant and railroad yards for 25 minutes.

The Air Force said that despite the intense ground fire, all the U.S. warplanes returned to their bases in Thailand and South Vietnam. Pilots reported the 8-square-mile complex was blanketed by billows of smoke rising 5,000 feet, with yellow secondary explosions erupting beneath the smoke.

Five anti-aircraft sites were reported silenced.

Though no losses were reported in the Thai Nguyen raid, the U.S. spokesman announced a U.S. Marine A6 Intruder jet went down over North Vietnam Monday and the two crewmen are missing. It was the 56th U.S. plane reported lost in the air war against North Vietnam.

The raid on Thai Nguyen was the third major attack since the decision was made last month to try to obliterate it. The plant, built with Red Chinese help turns out bridge girders and fuel tanks among other items.

Further pressure on the Communist forces was promised by the arrival of a squadron of eight Australian Canberra jet bombers at Phan Rang Bay. The Canberras will support Australian ground forces, freeing that number of U.S. planes which have been operating with the Australian ground contingent.

Ground action was generally quiet in South Vietnam with the headquarters communique reporting only 32 Viet Cong and 2 Americans killed and 30 Americans wounded in scattered actions.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two councilmen have asked for National Guard help as city officials adopted a get-tough policy to halt looting and violence in Cleveland's Negro areas.

Councilman Leo Jackson said Tuesday the troops should be called in "to implement the police" in enforcement of a curfew. "I don't want to see my area devastated," said Jackson, whose ward includes some of the areas hit by looting and window smashing Sunday night.

"I don't believe the facts and circumstances warrant calling out the National Guard at this time," Locher said. "However, I would not hesitate to ask that the National Guard be mobilized if I felt it were necessary," he told the councilmen.

Other councilmen had these comments concerning hoodlums and violence:

Wilson M. Latkovic — "Shoot 'em dead. The only good hoodlum is a dead one."

Edward F. Katalinas — "The best way to leave a hoodlum is to leave him on the street to be picked up by an ambulance."

Anthony J. Garofoli — "People in my ward are fed up. Unless the civil authorities can control the situation, people of my ward are ready to take action themselves."

Garofoli's 19th ward includes the University circle area and a section of Euclid where vandalism broke out Sunday night in the wake of a disturbance at a carnival.

Carr said "fear is everywhere and it's getting worse."

Jackson said rowdies consider violence "kicks and excitement, deliberately shooting grocers to death and then coming back and shooting some more."

Three East Side grocers were slain in holdups between March 1 and April 14.

Locher met with Safety Director John McCormick and Police Chief Richard Wagner Tuesday and told newsmen he was dissatisfied that the police department had not carried out "get tough" orders he had issued.

McCormick said the police department would "meet force with force. This city is not going to be run by hoodlums."

He said extra men would be available for duty this weekend in the previous trouble areas.

Ex-Chancellor Dies in Sleep At Age of 91

BONN, Germany (AP) — Konrad Adenauer died in his sleep today, plunging into mourning the prosperous West German nation he built up from the ashes of World War II defeat. He was 91.

The former chancellor was stricken a week ago with influenza and bronchitis. His condition steadily weakened as complications set in.

The family was at his bedside in the three-story home in Rhendorf, a village near this capital, when he died.

For several days, as the news spread that Adenauer was growing weaker, thousands had visited the village but when the end came there were few people around.

Radio and television stations broadcast solemn music and speeches of praise for the aged statesman. A jarring note came from the official Communist East Germany news agency ADN which said his life work was "against the interests of the German nation." It condemned him for outlawing the Communist party.

Death came at 1:21 p.m. while the aged statesman was sleeping.

Those in the Villa overlooking the Rhine included his son, Roman Catholic Msgr. Paul Adenauer.

Flags in the capital were lowered to half staff. Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger was the first to express his sorrow.

"He was given to do what is granted to few men: to raise up his fatherland from the deepest degradation and to bring it back into the community of free peoples," Kiesinger said.

Adenauer was one of the most influential figures of the western world for two decades. He served as chancellor of West

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI made a scathing attack today on extreme liberals and extreme conservatives in the Roman Catholic Church.

The Pope vented his displeasure at meeting of the commission to carry out the Vatican Ecumenical Council's changes in liturgy.

It was one of the harshest denunciations the pontiff has ever made against trends in the church that he considers too far in the quest for modernization or fight too hard against the Church up date.

Pope Paul told the commission he would not "keep silent our bitterness over some facts and some tendencies that certainly do not favor the good results that the Church expected from the diligent work of this commission."

Mayor Ben Gordon commended the local department and all the volunteer units. He said they deserve the praise of the entire community.

In the way of legislative business, the solons adopted a resolution authorizing the release of a performance bond. The amount concerned is $15,000, set up to assure improvements at Gale Court by the TEAL Subdivision developers.

According to the City Service Department, all conditions prescribed under the performance bond have been met. The Water Department also recommended the release.

An ordinance designating a tract of ground between the City Building and the Clifton Building on S. Court St. as a memorial to deceased police officers was held to first reading on the grounds that legislation on the matter might have been enacted previously. Police Chief Robert Temple was unable to be present to offer a clarification.

Invitation To Novel Is Withdrawn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Ralph Regula R-29 Navarre, Stark, withdrew today his invitation for Gordon Novel to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee on two anti-wiretapping bills.

In Retrospect

A COMMUNITY mourns its loss... This was most evident during today's funeral services for Mr. Charles Schieber and Mr. Ted Foster, killed in Saturday's tragic disaster...

A CAPACITY throng filled the First Methodist Church where joint services were conducted at 10:30 a. m. Many stores closed their doors so employees could pay their last respect to the two men.

AMERICAN FLAGS were raised throughout the city early today as a final tribute... The funeral procession followed a special route through the downtown section as a final tribute to two men who had been a part of the local business scene for numerous years... The Foreman chimes were played in salute.

THE FLAG observance was handled by Ermil Stonerock and the local American Legion Post... Both Mr. Schieber and Mr. Foster were veterans.

POLICE and other observers have no doubt Mr. Schieber and Mr. Foster were the true heroes of Saturday's calamity... Their effort to dispose of the bomb, carried into the store by Lee Holbrook, by way of a rear exit was fatal... Many feel they could have reached the front door in time... But the death toll probably would have been greater if the explosive device had been tossed onto Main St...

MR. SCHIEBER and Mr. Foster could have sought safety by merely removing themselves from the area of the bomb... But their first

NAACP Makes March Plans In Massillon

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Groundwork for a march in Massillon protesting the outbreak of fighting between Negro and white youths here has been laid by leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Herman Robinson, president of the Massillon branch of the NAACP, said the final decision on the march would be made by William Hardy of Indianapolis, NAACP regional director.

Apparent friction between Negro and white pupils at Washington High School triggered the fighting Monday night that spilled into the downtown area and the school parking lot. The Highway Patrol estimated 500 youths roamed the area during four hours of fighting, leading to 23 arrests.

Robinson said Hardy also would be asked to consider requesting an investigation by the U.S. Justice Department of racial unrest here.

Anders Johnson of Canton, head of the Youth Council of the Stark County NAACP branch, said the march, if approved, also would protest what he called unfair employment practices in Massillon, housing and police protection.

Mayor William J. Keen urged parents in a radio broadcast Tuesday to keep their teenage children off the streets Tuesday night and announced a crackdown in curfew enforcement. No trouble was reported during the night.

thoughts must have been to carry it to the place where it would do the least harm.

INVESTIGATORS also feel the bomb could have been thrown out the back door if Holbrook had not interfered... The local feed mill employee grappled with both Mr. Schieber and Mr. Foster, according to witnesses.

A GRIEF-STRIKEN community can only assume Holbrook believed his estranged wife was in the store when he walked in with the bomb... The man's actual reasoning probably never will be known.

THE BODY of Mr. Schieber was to be buried today at Bucyrus in his native Crawford County... Mr. Foster, born in Portsmouth, was laid to rest here in Forest Cemetery.

Ohio Employee Pay Raise Vote Near

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP — A major bill hiking the pay of about 45,000 state employees apparently will be approved by the legislature before the May 2 primary election.

The Senate Finance Committee voted 8-1 Tuesday night to recommend passage of the big money bill but acted after adding more than 100 amendments suggested by a subcommittee.

Legislative leaders said a floor vote on the measure probably will come early next week. A favorable vote would return the measure to the house for consideration of the Senate amendments.

Except for nurses, hospital attendants and some employees in so-called critical areas, the increases would not take effect until July 1. Critical area increases would become effective immediately.

The bill, which cost an estimated $47 million for the two years beginning July 1, provides for a 10 per cent increase on that date and an additional 5 (Continued on Page 2)

Mihajlov Jailed In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP) — Mihajlo Mihajlov, a university lecturer who raised a lonely voice against Yugoslavia's Communist regime, was convicted today of "spreading hostile propaganda" against the country. He was sentenced to 4½ years in prison.

Mihajlov was convicted and sentenced by a judge and two jurors after a two-day trial in the Belgrade District Court. More than 60 persons jammed into the tiny courtroom and others crowded the halls to hear the verdict. It was greeted with total silence.

It was Mihajlov's third conviction in two years of trouble with President Tito's regime over his writings, some published at home and some abroad. He has been an outspoken foe of the Communist one party system, denouncing it both in his writing and from the witness stand in court.

Germans Mourn Adenauer Death

Yanks Are Ready To Step Up War

SAIGON (AP) — American pilots took advantage of a break in the weather Tuesday afternoon to give North Vietnam its second worst bombing this year and to attack the showpiece Thai Nguyen steel plant for the 10th time.

The American airmen hit the north with 145 missions. The sudden upsurge indicated that the high command is ready to step up the war in the north immediately when any break in the monsoon weather permits.

The Thai Nguyen steel plant and railroad yards 38 miles north of Hanoi was hit by a task force held ready for the break in the weather. When it came, Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs and F4C Phantoms streaked into the Hanoi-Haiphong-Thai Nguyen triangle which is guarded by an iron ring of radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns and Soviet-built surface to air missiles.

While specially equipped planes peeled off to hit the anti-aircraft revetments and camouflaged SAM sites, other raiders plunged through a hail of fire over the steel plant and rail yards for 25 minutes.

The Air Force said that despite the intense ground fire, all the U.S. warplanes returned to their bases in Thailand and South Vietnam. Pilots reported the 8-square-mile complex was blanketed by billows of smoke rising 5,000 feet, with yellow secondary explosions erupting beneath the smoke.

Five anti-aircraft sites were reported silenced.

Though no losses were reported in the Thai Nguyen raid, the U.S. spokesman announced a U.S. Marine A6 Intruder jet went down over North Vietnam Monday and the two crewmen are missing. It was the 506th U.S. plane reported lost in the air war against North Vietnam.

The raid on Thai Nguyen was the third major attack since the decision was made last month to try to obliterate it. The plant, built with Red Chinese help turns out bridge girders and fuel tanks among other items.

Further pressure on the Communist forces was promised by the arrival of a squadron of eight Australian Canberra jet bombers at Phan Rang Bay. The Canberrans will support Australian ground forces, freeing that number of U.S. planes which have been operating with the Australian ground contingent.

Ground action was generally light in South Vietnam with the headquarters communique reporting only 52 Viet Cong and 2 Americans killed and 30 Americans wounded in scattered actions.

Clevelanders Say Violence Out of Hand

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two councilmen have asked for National Guard help as city officials adopted a get-tough policy to halt looting and violence in Cleveland's Negro areas.

Councilman Leo Jackson said Tuesday the troops should be called in "to implement the police" in enforcement of a curfew. "I don't want to see my area devastated," said Jackson, whose ward includes some of the areas hit by looting and window smashing Sunday night.

"I don't believe the facts and circumstances warrant calling out the National Guard at this time," Locher said. "However, I would not hesitate to ask that the National Guard be mobilized if I felt it were necessary," he told the councilmen.

Other councilmen had these comments concerning hoodlums and violence:

Wilson M. Latkovic — "Shoot 'em dead. The only good hoodlum is a dead one."

Edward F. Katalinas — "The best way to leave a hoodlum is to leave him on the street to be picked up by an ambulance."

Anthony J. Garofoli — "People in my ward are fed up. Unless the civil authorities can control the situation, people of my ward are ready to take action themselves."

Garofoli's 19th ward includes the University circle area and a section of Euclid where vandalism broke out Sunday night in the wake of a disturbance at a carnival.

Carr said "fear is everywhere and it's getting worse."

Jackson said rowdies consider violence "kicks and excitement, deliberately shooting grocers to death and then coming back and shooting some more."

Three East Side grocers were slain in holdups between March 1 and April 14.

Locher met with Safety Director John McCormick and Police Chief Richard Wagner Tuesday and told newsmen he was dissatisfied that the police department had not carried out "get tough" orders he had issued.

McCormick said the police department would "meet force with force. This city is not going to be run by hoodlums." He said extra men would be available for duty this weekend in the previous trouble areas.

Ex-Chancellor Dies in Sleep At Age of 91

BONN, Germany (AP) — Konrad Adenauer died in his sleep today, plunging into mourning the prosperous West German nation he built up from the ashes of World War II defeat. He was 91.

The former chancellor was stricken a week ago with influenza and bronchitis. His condition steadily weakened as complications set in.

The family was at his bedside in the three-story home in Rhondorf, a village near this capital, when he died.

For several days, as the news spread that Adenauer was growing weaker, thousands had visited the village but when the end came there were few people around.

Radio and television stations broadcast solemn music and speeches of praise for the aged statesman. A jarring note came from the official Communist East Germany news agency ADN which said his life work was "against the interests of the German nation." It condemned him for outlawing the Communist party.

Death came at 1:21 p.m. while the aged statesman was sleeping.

Those in the Villa overlooking the Rhine included his son, Roman Catholic Msgr. Paul Adenauer.

Flags in the capital were lowered to half staff. Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger was the first to express his sorrow.

"He was given to do what is granted to few men: to raise up his fatherland from the deepest degradation and to bring it back into the community of free peoples," Kiesinger said.

Adenauer was one of the most influential figures of the western world for two decades. He served as chancellor of West (Continued on Page 2)

Johnson Will Attend Rites For Adenauer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will attend the funeral of former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Germany, the White House announced today.

Johnson and Adenauer had known one another since the early 1950's and now that the latter is dead, the President told an aide "I want to be there" for the services.

Press Secretary George Christian said details are not yet available on the presidential trip to Germany, since information on the date of the funeral has not yet been obtained. He said the President probably will be accompanied by a delegation of three or four other persons. He said he did not know whether Mrs. Johnson would go along.

Pope Paul Makes Attack On Catholic Extremists

VATICAN CITY AP — Pope Paul VI made a scathing attack today on extreme liberals and extreme conservatives in the Roman Catholic Church.

The Pope vented his displeasure at meeting of the commission to carry out the Vatican Ecumenical Council's changes in liturgy.

It was one of the harshest denunciations the pontiff has ever made against trends in the church that he considers too far in the quest for modernization or fight too hard against the Church up date.

Pope Paul told the commission he would not "keep silent our bitterness over some facts and some tendencies that certainly do not favor the good results that the Church expected from the diligent work of this commission."

He defended the commission's president, Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro, the liberal archbishop of Bologna, who has been accused by conservative Italian clerics of undermining the Church.

Then the Pope denounced what he called "episodes of indiscipline" and "willfully arbitrary" practices in some liturgical services. This reflected his oft-expressed fears that some Catholics are modifying liturgical practices too rapidly and doing it without authority.

He emphasized that changes in worship can be made only with the permission of the Church. He expressed confidence that the various national and regional bishops conferences around the world would keep a close watch on changes and see that they are acceptable.

Surveyor Seems In Good Shape

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, equipped with a television camera and a small digging device, was reported performing beautifully as it coasted toward a soft landing today on the moon.

"Everything's going fine," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The touchdown on the lunar Sea of Storms was expected at 7:04 p.m., EST.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory reported Tuesday night that the spacecraft was maintaining both attitude and position for a proper landing. They said all systems aboard the three-legged probe were operating smoothly.

About five hours from the expected touchdown, the craft's speed is slated to drop to 2,056 miles per hour as Surveyor comes within the influence of lunar gravity.

At a point 60 miles slant range from the moon, the space traveler will accelerate to about 6,000 miles per hour. Then the firing of its main retrorocket is scheduled to slow it to 250 m.p.h. for the crucial landing phase.

Radar signals bounced from the moon back to the spacecraft will control the burning of three small gas jets which are designed to reduce Surveyor's descent as the altitude from the lunar surface decreases.

Scientists expect that about 13 feet from the moon's surface, the probe will have slowed to approximately 3 m.p.h.

At this point, the three jets will be shut off and Surveyor is to free-fall to the moon.

Surveyor 3, launched Monday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., has the mission of scouting astronaut landing sites. If all goes well, it will send back pictures of itself and the terrain. It will also scoop some soil with its spindly arm and send back an analysis.

Surveyor 1 sent back 11,250 photos after its landing last June.

Surveyor 2 crashed because of a guidance failure.

Soviet Scientist Says UFO Phenomena Serious

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet scientist says there may really be such things as flying saucers from outer space.

Soviet radar screens have detected unidentified flying objects — UFOs — for 20 years, he says.

But Soviet scientists, like their colleagues in the West, are still puzzled about what such UFOs really are.

The scientist, identified only as F. Zigel, was writing in the current issue of the illustrated Soviet youth magazine Cmena.

The article took the lid off a subject rarely discussed in the press here.

In the 1950s the Soviet press scoffed at American reports of flying saucers as just so much cold war propaganda.

By those Soviet accounts, the Americans tried to explain away the "saucers" as some sort of new, secret Soviet weapon.

Reports of flying saucers sighted in the Soviet Union, in the Caucasus and in Central Asia, also were ridiculed here.

Then for several years the Soviet press remained silent on the whole question, the Cmena article showed that the UFO issue is being reopened, this time as an object of serious scientific study.

Zigel was identified as one of the editors of a book, "Inhabited Cosmos," being prepared for publication here. The book will discuss the possibility of living beings in space and efforts to communicate with them.

The chief editor of the book is B. P. Konstantinov, who, as a vice president of the Soviet academy of science, is one of this country's most respected scientists.

In his magazine article, Zigel said the "angel echo," a UFO detected by radar, is constantly observed by scientists at the Central Aerological Observatory near Moscow.

Similar observations, he said, have been made in the United States, Australia, India and Japan.

"The phenomena of the UFO today should be considered as global," he added.

He rejected the idea that birds, insects or plant seeds could cause such reactions on radar screens.

Zigel said there could be no doubt that UFOs exist "but the nature of these objects is still not understandable today."

Then he listed these five possible explanations:

1. Nonsense or invention. He said there was some untruth here, citing reports of people who claimed to have ridden in flying saucers and others who threw hats in the air and then photographed "saucers." But he rejected this alternative as killing the question rather than solving it.
2. An optical illusion related to the distribution of light on the earth's atmosphere, such as a rainbow. The UFO, he said, is more complicated than that, however.
3. A new secret flying apparatus of one of the military powers on earth. "No one holds this view now," he said.
4. An unknown phenomena of nature, just as radioactivity was unknown until the end of the last century. In this context, ionized particles and charged particles of dust in the atmosphere were given as a possible explanation. But Zigel said, this does not explain the color or maneuverability of UFOs or their appearance in good weather.
5. Spaceships from an advanced civilization on another planet. Zigel said the speed of UFOs support this theory. So does what he called "the fact" that no UFOs were ever reliably reported to have landed.

Zigel called for "an all-sided, thorough, scientific exploration" to clear up the origin of UFOs once and for all.

Ex-Chancellor

Germany from the founding of the Bonn Republic in 1949 until 1963. But he remained active in politics almost to the end as a firm friend of French President Charles de Gaulle.

"Der Alte—the old man—as Adenauer was known to his countrymen, was still a member of parliament when he died. He was a member and former chairman of the Christian Democratic Party.

All through the cold war, he was one of the West's most uncompromising opponents of Soviet communism. In his last years, however, after he relinquished the chancellorship to Ludwig Erhard, he predicted Red China would be the West's major menace and urged closer relations with Russia.

West Germany lay in the ruins of World War II when Adenauer took power. Is people were disturbed by the rest of the world because of the Nazi past.

During Adenauer's 14 years in office the country rose to unprecedented prosperity and gained acceptance as a friend and ally of the Western powers. It became a bulwark against further westward expansion by Communism.

Adenauer's long life covered a period during which his country's fortunes rose and fell dramatically. He was born in the neighboring Rhineland city of Cologne on Jan. 5, 1876, just after the close of the Franco-Prussian war. He knew the eras of Bismarck, Kaiser Wilhelm II and Adolf Hitler.

As a poor boy, the young Adenauer studied law and married into an influential family. In 1916 his first big political break came when he was chosen mayor of his native city. He held this office until 1933, when he was forced out by the Nazis for his unsympathetic attitude toward their rise to power.

He spent the 12 years of the Third Reich at his home in Rhendorf, tending his rose garden and potting in his hobby shop.

Arrested twice by the Gestapo he and his second wife—the first died in 1916—spent their 25th wedding anniversary in prison.

During the last days of the war Adenauer took refuge in a monastery in the Eifel mountains near Bonn. He was found there by allied officers.

Without the taint of a Nazi past, and full of vigor despite his age, Adenauer returned to Cologne to resume his political career. He helped found the Christian Democratic party, based on both Protestant and Catholic support. Adenauer was a devout Catholic but believed the two faiths should work together in politics to further their common ideas.

Body of Woman Found, Dead Since Christmas

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Ashland County sheriff's deputies say the body of a woman about 40, found in a private cabin at Spring Lake seven miles north of here apparently had been in the cabin since last Christmas.

Cause of death was not determined immediately.

The cabin owner William Krimlau, and two other persons found the body when they broke into the place Tuesday. Krimlau said he rented the cabin last summer to a man who paid the rent up to Jan. 1.

One of two cars owned by the tenant was still parked in front of the cabin, but Krimlau said he had not seen the man, not identified, for several months.

The woman's body was in bed.

The Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification was asked to help.

Committee OKs School Birthdate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate's Education, Health and Welfare Committee Tuesday endorsed a statewide Sept. 30 qualifying birthdate for admission of children into the first grade.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. Ralph S. Regula R - 29, Navarre, Stark, calls for the standard date for all school districts to become effective in the fall of 1969. Local districts could set any date prior to Oct. 31 for admission prior to that time.

Also voted out of committee for senate consideration was a bill altering election districts of the state Board of Education

The building which housed Bingham's Drugs was insured for $25,000. Contents of the store were covered to the extent of $90,000. The building is owned by Mrs. Norman Kutler.

The building which was rented by the Wardell Carpet and Rugs was owned by Reber Bell of Florida. It was insured for $7,750.

Contents of the building were insured for $18,000. In addition, the carpet and rug firm had a time loss of business contract and will be reimbursed for the time they are not in business.

Also included are boosts for appointive members if the governor's cabinet but included in the Senate amendments were reductions in raises proposed for these officials by the house.

The amendments reduced from $27,539 to $24,960 proposed annual salaries of the directors of finance, welfare and health. But they left unchanged salaries of $27,539 for the directors of highways and mental health.

The Senate committee approved subcommittee suggestions to take the Department of Education from under the bill's provisions and to compute employees' earned vacation on an hourly basis.

In other committee developments, the House Industry and Subcommittee report on an administration measure to ban racial discrimination in hiring on public building projects.

The measure was toughened up considerably from the original version designed to put in to the statutes an executive order by Gov. James A. Rhodes several months ago. Civil rights groups bitterly opposed the governor's order and the bill as being too lenient and their testimony may have resulted in one major change by the subcommittee.

Rep. Allen J. Bartunek R - 54 Cleveland Heights, Cuyahoga, subcommittee chairman, said the group deleted a section which would have permitted state and its political subdivisions to waive nondiscrimination provisions of completion of a public project was deemed vital and in the public interest.

The subcommittee also removed a section that would have required the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to investigate cases of alleged discrimination. Bartunek said under its new form, the contracting authority can enforce compliance "simply by canceling the contract."

It is understood the governor is pressing for passage of both the anti-bias measure and the state pay raise bill before the May 2 election. The governor's office is said to believe this would help chances at the polls for his Ohio Bond Commission and apportionment proposals, on the ballot as proposed amendments to the Ohio constitution.

Lost 9-Year-Old Is Found Safe Near Waverly

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—A 9-year-old boy, object of a search by a party numbering more than 150 after he wandered away from his home late Monday, was found safe Tuesday in a rural section 10 miles northeast of here.

Ronnie Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simmons of Rt. 1, Beaver, was found crying, crouched beneath a rock ledge, by two Waverly High School students.

When discovered by Joe Vulgamore, 16, and Joe Bullion, 17, Ronnie was wearing only a T-shirt, slacks and a pair of boots.

He was treated for exposure and shock after spending some 20 hours lost in temperatures which dropped below 40 degrees during Monday night and Tuesday morning. Pike County Sheriff Jesse Foster said later the boy appeared to be in good condition.

Issue No. 1 Will Stay on Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court said today that the Bond Commission Issue No. 1 stays on the May 2 election ballot.

The 4-3 decision came while Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes was campaigning in western Ohio in behalf of the proposed commission.

The decision denied Democratic taxpayer John T. Foreman of Columbus a writ of mandamus to prevent a popular vote on the proposed change in the state Constitution.

The proposal was placed on ballots by the Legislature under an administration plan to create a commission empowered to issue capital improvement bonds without a direct vote at the polls as now required.

Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft wrote the 24 - page opinion denying the writ. Concurring with him were Judges Paul M. Herbert, Paul W. Brown and Louis J. Schneider Jr. Schneider wrote a separate two-page concurring opinion.

Judge C. William O'Neill, former governor and attorney general wrote a 30-page dissent concurred in by judges Charles Immerman and John M. Mathias.

Attorneys said the decision probably cleared the way for Apportionment Issue No. 2 to remain on the ballot also. That issue, to retain the present method of electing state legislators, was attacked in a separate mandamus suit, still pending.

Taft's majority opinion struck down major arguments against placing Issue No. 1 on the ballot.

The decision said the General Assembly could authorize a vote on a proposed constitutional amendment by joint resolution rather than by statute, and that the decision by voters could be made at a special election which in this case coincides with the May 2 primary.

The proposal limits the authority of the commission by specifying the purposes for which money may be raised and used," the decision said, and "does not turn the proposal

5 Jurors Now Tentative for Ironton Trial

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Two more jurors were seated but one who had been seated earlier was excused during the second day of jury selection in the murder trial of Carl E. Halleck, charged with slaying Ironton's police chief during a hailbreak.

Clifton, also a Democrat candidate for mayor, replied earlier and again last night that the resolution was withdrawn because the city was in no financial position to quote how much money could be made available for purchase of the building. He said the removal action was recommended by three councilmen.

Solon Barnhill, adding to Turner's comments, said "Council seems to be the least informed on the purchase proposal. A thorough study to determine commitments and responsibility should be made."

Barnhill said there is a specific need for more information from the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) and the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) section. "We don't know enough about the program that might be available," he claimed.

COUNCILMAN David Crawford, explaining that he is interested in getting a city building, said he is under the impression a resolution of intent would not be binding. If the measure is needed as an initial step in the acquisition, he said he would be in favor — providing the city will not face a definite $20,000 obligation later.

Along the same line, Turner asked the question: "does the resolution of intent amount to a contract, or can it be rescinded later if we find the money is not available?"

Turner also expressed concern over the time element involved. He said general obligation bonds might be the only source of money for the proposed purchase. "This procedure takes time," he pointed out.

Councilman Jenkins offered viewpoints on behalf of a YMCA committee here. He said the group does not care to become directly involved in the purchase in that the body has no financial means at present. However, he did note that the Army could serve as an ideal temporary facility for a "Y" program.

According to Clifton, the newly appointed study committee would be empowered to make application for federal aid if the investigation shows it is warranted. It was indicated the resolution of intent will stand inactive until the investigative panel makes a report.

Surveyor Seems In Good Shape

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, equipped with a television camera and a small digging device, was reported performing beautifully as it coasted toward a soft landing today on the moon.

"Everything's going fine," said a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The touchdown on the lunar sea of storms was expected at 7:04 p.m., EST.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory reported Tuesday night that the spacecraft was maintaining both attitude and position for a proper landing. They said all systems aboard the three-legged probe were operating smoothly.

About five hours from the expected touchdown, the craft's speed is slated to drop to 2,056 miles per hour as Surveyor comes within the influence of lunar gravity.

At a point 60 miles slant range from the moon, the space traveler will accelerate to about 6,000 miles per hour. Then the firing of its main retrorocket is scheduled to slow it to 250 m.p.h. for the crucial landing phase.

Radar signals bounced from the moon back to the spacecraft will control the burning of three small gas jets which are designed to reduce Surveyor's descent as the altitude from the lunar surface decreases.

Scientists expect that about 13 feet from the moon's surface, the probe will have slowed to approximately 3 m.p.h.

At this point, the three jets will be shut off and Surveyor is to free-fall to the moon.

Surveyor 3, launched Monday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., has the mission of scouting astronaut landing sites. If all goes well, it will send back pictures of itself and the terrain. It will also scoop some soil with its spindly arm and send back an analysis.

Surveyor 1 sent back 11,250 photos after its landing last June.

Surveyor 2 crashed because of a guidance failure.

Soviet Scientist Says UFO Phenomena Serious

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet scientist says there may really be such things as flying saucers from outer space.

Soviet radar screens have detected unidentified flying objects — UFOs — for 20 years, he says.

But Soviet scientists, like their colleagues in the West, are still puzzled about what such UFOs really are.

The scientist, identified only as F. Zigel, was writing in the current issue of the illustrated Soviet youth magazine Cmena.

The article took the lid off a subject rarely discussed in the press here.

In the 1950s the Soviet press scoffed at American reports of flying saucers as just so much cold war propaganda.

By those Soviet accounts, the Americans tried to explain away the "saucers" as some sort of new, secret Soviet weapon.

Reports of flying saucers sighted in the Soviet Union, in the Caucasus and in Central Asia, also were ridiculed here.

Then for several years the Soviet press remained silent on the whole question, the Cmena article showed that the UFO issue is being reopened, this time as an object of serious scientific study.

Zigel was identified as one of the editors of a book, "Inhabited Cosmos," being prepared for publication here. The book will discuss the possibility of living beings in space and efforts to communicate with them.

The chief editor of the book is B. P. Konstantinov, who, as a vice president of the Soviet academy of science, is one of this country's most respected scientists.

In his magazine article, Zigel said the "angel echo," a UFO detected by radar, is constantly observed by scientists at the Central Aerological Observatory near Moscow.

Similar observations, he said, have been made in the United States, Australia, India and Japan.

"The phenomena of the UFO today should be considered as global," he added.

He rejected the idea that birds, insects or plant seeds could cause such reactions on radar screens.

Zigel said there could be no doubt that UFOs exist "but the nature of these objects is still not understandable today."

Then he listed these five possible explanations:

1. Nonsense or invention. He said there was some truth here, citing reports of people who claimed to have ridden in flying saucers and others who threw hats in the air and then photographed "saucers." But he rejected this alternative as killing the question rather than solving it.

2. An optical illusion related to the distribution of light on the earth's atmosphere, such as a rainbow. The UFO, he said, is more complicated than that, however.

3. A new secret flying apparatus of one of the military powers on earth. "No one holds this view now," he said.

4. An unknown phenomena of nature, just as radioactivity was unknown until the end of the last century. In this context, ionized particles and charged particles of dust in the atmosphere were given as a possible explanation. But Zigel said, this does not explain the color or maneuverability of UFOs or their appearance in good weather.

5. Spacecraft from an advanced civilization on another planet. Zigel said the speed of UFOs support this theory. So does what he called "the fact" that no UFOs were ever reliably reported to have landed.

Zigel called for "an all-sided, thorough, scientific exploration" to clear up the origin of UFOs once and for all.

Germany from the founding of the Bonn Republic in 1949 until 1963. But he remained active in politics almost to the end as a firm friend of French President Charles de Gaulle.

"Der Alte—the old man—as Adenauer was known to his countrymen, was still a member of parliament when he died. He was a member and former chairman of the Christian Democratic Party.

All through the cold war, he was one of the West's most uncompromising opponents of Soviet communism. In his last years, however, after he relinquished the chancellorship to Ludwig Erhard, he predicted Red China would be the West's major menace and urged closer relations with Russia.

West Germany lay in the ruins of World War II when Adenauer took power. Is people were disturbed by the rest of the world because of the Nazi past.

During Adenauer's 14 years in office the country rose to unprecedented prosperity and gained acceptance as a friend and ally of the Western powers. It became a bulwark against further westward expansion by Communism.

Adenauer's long life covered a period during which his country's fortunes rose and fell dramatically. He was born in the neighboring Rhineland city of Cologne on Jan. 5, 1876, just after the close of the Franco-Prussian war. He knew the eras of Bismarck, Kaiser Wilhelm II and Adolf Hitler.

As a poor boy, the young Adenauer studied law and married into an influential family. In 1916 his first big political break came when he was chosen mayor of his native city. He held this office until 1933, when he was forced out by the Nazis for his unsympathetic attitude toward their rise to power.

He spent the 12 years of the Third Reich at his home in Rhondorf, tending his rose garden and potting in his hobby shop.

Arrested twice by the Gestapo he and his second wife—the first died in 1916—spent their 25th wedding anniversary in prison. During the last days of the war Adenauer took refuge in a monastery in the Eifel mountains near Bonn. He was found there by allied officers.

Without the taint of a Nazi past, and full of vigor despite his age, Adenauer returned to Cologne to resume his political career. He helped found the Christian Democratic party, based on both Protestant and Catholic support. Adenauer was a devout Catholic but believed the two faiths should work together in politics to further their common ideas.

Body of Woman Found, Dead Since Christmas

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Ashland County sheriff's deputies say the body of a woman about 40, found in a private cabin at Spring Lake seven miles north of here apparently had been in the cabin since last Christmas.

Cause of death was not determined immediately.

The cabin owner William Krimlau, and two other persons found the body when they broke into the place Tuesday. Krimlau said he rented the cabin last summer to a man who paid the rent up to Jan. 1.

One of two cars owned by the tenant was still parked in front of the cabin, but Krimlau said he had not seen the man, not identified, for several months.

The woman's body was in bed.

The Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification was asked to help.

Committee OKs School Birthdate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate's Education, Health and Welfare Committee Tuesday endorsed a statewide Sept. 30 qualifying birthdate for admission of children into the first grade.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. Ralph S. Regula R-29, Navarre, Stark, calls for the standard date for all school districts to become effective in the fall of 1969. Local districts could set any date prior to Oct. 31 for admission prior to that time.

Also voted out of committee for senate consideration was a bill altering election districts of the state Board of Education.

Insurance on Buildings, Contents Totals $275,750

The three buildings and contents destroyed in Saturday's fire were insured for a total of $275,750, local authorities reported today.

The building which housed Bingman's Drugs was insured for $25,000. Contents of the store were covered to the extent of $90,000. The building is owned by Mrs. Norman Knier.

The building which was rented by the Wardell Carpet and Rugs was owned by Reber Bell of Florida. It was insured for $7,750.

Contents of the building were insured for $18,000. In addition, the carpet and rug firm had a time loss of business contract and will be reimbursed for the time they are not in business.

IN ADDITION, regular employees of the business will continue to be paid their wages.

King's Department store's contents were insured for $75,000. The building, owned by Harry Clifton, is insured for $60,000.

Neither of the occupants of the two apartments over the Clifton building carried any household insurance, officials reported.

Lloyd Wardell, proprietor of Wardell Carpet and Rugs, plans to start his business again as soon as he can locate temporary quarters. He reported that although he has talked to the owner of the building which was burned, the owner has not yet made a decision concerning his intentions with the property.

King's Department Store has secured a short term lease for the empty store room in the IOOF building which formerly housed Circleville Hardware.

Current indications are that Clifton will rebuild his store and that King's will return to it when completed.

Ohio Employee

per cent July 1, 1968.

Also included are boosts for appointive members if the governor's cabinet but included in the Senate amendments were reductions in raises proposed for these officials by the house.

The amendments reduced from $27,539 to $24,960 proposed annual salaries of the directors of finance, welfare and health. But they left unchanged salaries of $27,539 for the directors of highways and mental health.

The Senate committee approved subcommittee suggestions to take the Department of Education from under the bill's provisions and to compute employees' earned vacation on an hourly basis.

In other committee developments, the House Industry and Subcommittee report on an administration measure to ban racial discrimination in hiring on public building projects.

The measure was toughened up considerably from the original version designed to put in to the statutes an executive order by Gov. James A. Rhodes several months ago. Civil rights groups bitterly opposed the governor's order and the bill as being too lenient and their testimony may have resulted in one major change by the subcommittee.

Rep. Allen J. Bartunek R-54 Cleveland Heights, Cuyahoga, subcommittee chairman, said the group deleted a section which would have permitted state and its political subdivisions to waive nondiscrimination provisions of completion of a public project was deemed vital and in the public interest.

The subcommittee also removed a section that would have required the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to investigate cases of alleged discrimination. Bartunek said under its new form, the contracting authority can enforce compliance "simply by canceling the contract."

It is understood the governor is pressing for passage of both the anti-bias measure and the state pay raise bill before the May 2 election. The governor's office is said to believe this would help chances at the polls for his Ohio Bond Commission and apportionment proposals, on the ballot as proposed amendments to the Ohio constitution.

Lost 9-Year-Old Is Found Safe Near Waverly

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—A 9-year-old boy, object of a search by a party numbering more than 150 after he wandered away from his home late Monday, was found safe Tuesday in a rural section 10 miles north-east of here.

Ronnie Simmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simmons of Rt. 1, Beaver, was found crying, crouched beneath a rock ledge, by two Waverly High School students.

When discovered by Joe Vulgamore, 16, and Joe Bullion, 17, Ronnie was wearing only a T-shirt, slacks and a pair of boots.

He was treated for exposure and shock after spending some 20 hours lost in temperatures which dropped below 40 degrees during Monday night and Tuesday morning. Pike County Sheriff Jesse Foster said later the boy appeared to be in good condition.

members. Underlying the technical change is support by the bill of the continuation of an elected board in light of speculation that the Rhodes administration may seek an appointed education policy committee.

Issue No. 1 Will Stay on Ballot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court said today that the Bond Commission Issue No. 1 stays on the May 2 election ballot.

The 4-3 decision came while Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes was campaigning in western Ohio in behalf of the proposed commission.

The decision denied Democratic taxpayer John T. Foreman of Columbus a writ of mandamus to prevent a popular vote on the proposed change in the state Constitution.

The proposal was placed on ballots by the Legislature under an administration plan to create a commission empowered to issue capital improvement bonds without a direct vote at the polls as now required.

Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft wrote the 24-page opinion denying the writ. Concurring with him were Judges Paul M. Herbert, Paul W. Brown and Louis J. Schneider Jr. Schneider wrote a separate two-page concurring opinion.

Judge C. William O'Neill, former governor and attorney general wrote a 30-page dissent concurred in by Judges Charles Immerman and John M. Mathias.

Attorneys said the decision probably cleared the way for Apportionment Issue No. 2 to remain on the ballot also. That issue, to retain the present method of electing state legislators, was attacked in a separate mandamus suit, still pending.

Taft's majority opinion struck down major arguments against placing Issue No. 1 on the ballot.

The decision said the General Assembly could authorize a vote on a proposed constitutional amendment by joint resolution rather than by statute, and that the decision by voters could be made at a special election which in this case coincides with the May 2 primary.

The proposal limits the authority of the commission by specifying the purposes for which money may be raised and used," the decision said, and "does not turn the proposal into a proposal for more than one amendment."

Atty. Rankin Gibson of Columbus, Foreman's counsel and former aide to ex-Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, had contended that the bond commission proposal was improperly placed on the ballot.

He said the special election date in the resolution actually was required by law and that a statute enacted by the legislature was improperly designated as emergency legislation to make it effective immediately. He said the law actually would not become effective for 90 days.

Gibson also contended that the Constitution limited proposed amendments to a single issue, and that the commission proposal actually contained two issues. The second, he contended, is a provision to defer property taxes of aged Ohioans.

Meanwhile, Gov. Rhodes today traveled the state plugging for voter support of the two proposals.

Touring Congressmen

Every two years the nation elects a new Congress. Immediately following the election a number of interesting trips are taken around the world by defeated congressmen. The only thing wrong with these retirement jaunts is that they are paid for with public funds.

Junketing congressmen, retired or otherwise, are nothing new. The latest issue of the Congressional Record containing expense reports filed with Congress contains 43 pages detailing the 1966 trips. Not including transportation costs, which are considerable, the so-lons reported spending more than $700,000 in overseas trips — and some of the committees have not yet filed their reports.

Parliamentary conferences were popular last season. No less than 11 attended the NATO Parliamentary Conference in Paris in November. Ohio Representative Wayne Hays joined the senators there after an earlier trip through England, France and Belgium for another NATO parliamentarians' conference. Hays also spent six days in France and England in May — also on NATO parliamentary business.

This year Mr. Hays has attended a British - American parliamentarians' conference in Bermuda. A group of congressmen is about to depart for a meeting of the Interparliamentary Union on Majorca.

Former Rep. Walter Rogers of Texas announced his retirement from Congress last year, then went on a six-week tour of Europe at a cost of $3,970 to the taxpayers. Rep. Glenn Andrews, defeated Alabama congressman, joined four House Education and Labor Committee members on a round-the-world tour.

Unfortunately, lame duck junkets are not rare in Congress. Admittedly, the waste of tens of thousands of dollars on such trips is small in the overall scheme of things, but it is an attitude easily emulated throughout government service.

Victim of Housewife's Ear?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that every American housewife gets tired of hearing: "What would you like for our wedding anniversary, Jane? Something useful like a new can opener?"

"You may think money grows on trees, but it doesn't."

"Hey, Mom, where's my blue sport shirt? It has to be somewhere."

"Why is it always my turn to have to take out the garbage?"

"Yeah, it tastes okay. But, of course, nobody can cook that dish quite like my mother could."

"I was cleaning out my desk and came across some of your old love letters, Jane. Gosh, we certainly were nutty in those days, weren't we?"

"What do you do with yourself all day, just sit around and watch soap operas on television?"

"I know I promised to take you out some night this week. But can't we make it some night next week instead?"

"Hey, Mom, have you seen my plaid skirt? It has to be somewhere."

"My great grandmother traveled west in a covered wagon without an electric dishwasher. My grandmother raised 10 children on a farm without an electric dishwasher. My mother never asked my father for an electric dishwasher. So why should you mind getting a few soapuds on your hands?"

"The trouble with you, Mom, is that you're too old-fashioned."

"What do we need a new rug for? We've only had this one 23 years, and it still looks as good as new — except for the worn spots."

"While you're up, honey, would you mind going to the refrigerator and get me a can of beer? And while you're at it, how about making me a sandwich? Be sure and butter both pieces of the bread. Yeah, and don't forget the mustard."

"Hey, Mom, where's my pink blouse? It has to be somewhere."

"Gee, I wonder what it would be like to be single again. I've been married so long I don't even remember."

"I just met up with an old war buddy, so I guess I'll miss the 5:57 train. If I miss the 6:43, be sure and meet the 7:39. And if I'm not on that, I'll be on the 8:52 — for sure."

"Don't tell me we're having oodles mishash hash for dinner, Jane. That's exactly what I had for lunch."

NEW YORK (AP) — The shift in the center of shareowner population, once between Boston and Philadelphia but now on a steady course to the interior, could provoke the New York Stock Exchange into setting up trading floors around the country.

This idea of following the shareowner crowd is not planned for the immediate future nor is it projected, but the possibility is not dismissed by exchange officials.

Modern computer and other electronic technology could easily integrate these geographically distant offices.

Technology, however, could lead also to changes in trading patterns, now unforeseen, that might even eliminate any need for multiple offices, or even for a floor anywhere. In their basic pattern, trading floors are, perhaps by necessity, little advanced from fish auction markets.

As the 175th anniversary of the exchange approaches next month, it must consider moves to accommodate itself to shifting population pressures, just as the pressure of heavy trading forced a move from the original tontine coffee house site in 1793.

One of the big disadvantages of a single exchange floor in New York is the clock, which closes the exchange at 3:30 p.m. EST when it is only 12:30 on the Pacific Coast and breakfast time in Hawaii.

A West Coast trader who wishes to catch the New York opening must be dressed, have eaten and traveled to his office by 7 a.m., a schedule that evokes wonder but little sympathy in the east.

Easterners and their work habits are tradition-bound, thoroughly scheduled, rather fussy. It would be too great a job to ask them to observe a trading day of, say, 11:30 to 5.

The alternatives also are complicated, not the least of the problems being the presence of thriving stock exchanges in cities such as Chicago and San Francisco, which must be considered possibilities for any new floor.

Nevertheless, the problems of shifting population must be considered. Already California has taken the shareowner lead from New York, showing 2.5 million shareowners in 1965 to 2.4 million for New York.

Share ownership has risen everywhere, but the shifts in shareowner population are conclusively westward and southward.

WELL NOW, there was this hard-crusted millionaire banker who was ordered by his doctor to get a job pronto in the open air if he wanted to continue to enjoy his wealth on the planet Earth. So the banker bought himself a filling station. His first morning on the new job, a motorist chugged in and ordered ten gallons of gas. "What's your destination?" demanded the banker. "Scarsdale and back," was the answer. The banker eyed him coldly and asked, "Don't you think you can make do with FIVE gallons?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. GOLDMAN, M.D.

Is there any truth that full dentures can now be made to fit perfectly with magnets?

Many full dentures can be made to fit without special gadgets. They are used very effectively and almost meet all the requirements of one's own teeth for chewing and appearance.

Sometimes, especially in the elderly, the gum margins become small, thin and lose their supporting structure. When this happens the dentures slide, become unmanageable and uncomfortable.

In an effort to remedy these poorly fitting dentures a great many devices have been tried including chemicals, rubber composites and adhesive powders. Most of these are completely safe but have only little value to some people and certainly not to everyone.

Dental surgeons are remarkably ingenious and are constantly devising brilliant new techniques for their patients. Dr. Manuel Gottlieb of New York City recently described to me a method by which dentures were satisfactorily kept in place with the use of magnets.

The way they work is particularly interesting. I am certain that all my readers have seen a child's toy in which magnets keep tiny dolls separated because of the opposing forces of the magnets.

This is the same principle that is used in these dentures. The opposing magnets force the dentures apart and thus keep them in a moderately well-fixed position, without the use of any adhesives.

Dental cases must be carefully chosen before the magnets are tied. The dental surgeon is in the best position to carefully evaluate the advantages of this technique in every individual case.

How can scarring of the face be prevented in children who have acne?

Most cases of adolescent acne disappear and leave few, if any, pits, depressions and scars if the skin of the face is not roughly handled. The embarrassment and psychological scars heal kindly, too, if children are patient and are given the emotional support they need during this critical period.

Rhodes' Creative Localism

By John Chamberlain

Governor George Romney of Michigan got back into the Presidential sweepstakes by his relatively hawkish Hartford, Connecticut, speech, and thereby deflated the underdog Nelson Rockefeller boom. But handsome George still has a long way to go. The probability, as Barry Goldwater said the other Sunday, is that Romney and Nixon will move into the convention with 400 votes each. The rest of the votes will be in the pockets of the favorite sons.

So the control of the convention could be in the hands of three particularly powerful favorites from California, Texas and Ohio. The trend could ride on the determination of California's Governor Reagan, Texas' Governor Reagan, Texas' Senator Tower, and Ohio's Governor Rhodes. If they stick together, they could own the future.

People have heard a lot about Reagan and Tower, but outside of Ohio they know little about Rhodes. In his own state, as I learned last week on a trip to Youngstown, Rhodes is considered a mighty man. They say that he has already done for Ohio what Reagan has promised to do for California. Rhodes is credited with cleaning up the financial mess dating from the Mike Di Salle era. And now quietly, he is trying to find a way of keeping money in the state for publicly approved purposes without waiting for Washington to end the apparently interminable debate on whether the U. S. Treasury should pass back a percentage of federally collected taxes to the various state capitals.

One Rhodes' proposition is to permit counties and municipalities to issue tax-exempt revenue bonds for approved industrial and business developments. Local improvement corporations would be created to carry out the projects, and public officials who wish to participate either by ownership or contracting would be exempted from the present state conflict-of-interest laws. The reason for the exemption is that in small communities that have part time mayors and councilmen the public officials are often the leading enterprisers. Without their participation, nothing in some small communities would move.

By using the tax-exempt bond device for improvement corporations, Ohio would, in effect, be getting money from Washington by the simple expedient of withholding it at the source. The Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Fowler, with an eye on his own federal balance sheet, frowns on the extension of such practices.

Inasmuch as the federal government has a host of past projects still to pay for, Mr. Fowler's worries are understandable. But a proliferation of local developments in Ohio would certainly help take that state off Washington's neck. Governor Rhodes has offered creative localism as an offset to creative federalism, and if creative localism could be made to flourish there would be less need for federal tax sharing with the states.

Governor Rhodes doesn't go in for ideological pronouncements, and so he has escaped being placed in the Left-Right spectrum. But his actions stamp him as a pragmatic conservative. By making use of revenue bonds to start new projects, Governor Rhodes would take both the local taxpayer and Washington, D. C., off the hook. This is quite in line with the thinking that undergirds Ronald Reagan's Creative Society. But in Ohio they don't have any fancy name for it. The Buckeye State might call it Creative Localism (capital letters, please) and take it from there.

The predictions are that of Romney and Nixon became deadlocked in the 1968 convention, Senator Percy of Illinois—or, possibly, New York's Nelson Rockefeller—will be the choice of the smoke-filled rooms. But if the economic and social thinking of Rhodes, Reagan, and Senator Tower of Texas should prove stronger than the temptation to make political deals, the next Republican nominee will surely not be a Big Government liberal. If a compromise choice is necessary to break a Nixon-Romney standoff, it could very well be Governor Rhodes himself. By keeping clear of labels and showing what can be done by local initiative without talking ideology, he has avoided making the enemies that Reagan and Tower have made. Yet, since the pudding's proof is still in the eating, Rhodes could be very acceptable to Tower and Reagan followers.

The word from Ohio is "watch Rhodes." He could be a most available Dark Horse, carrying the colors of Creative Localism into the race.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WELL NOW, there was this hard-crusted millionaire banker who was ordered by his doctor to get a job pronto in the open air if he wanted to continue to enjoy his wealth on the planet Earth. So the banker bought himself a filling station. His first morning on the new job, a motorist chugged in and ordered ten gallons of gas. "What's your destination?" demanded the banker. "Scarsdale and back," was the answer.

The banker eyed him coldly and asked, "Don't you think you can make do with FIVE gallons?"

Mr. A. A. Thomson, English essayist, thinks that the funniest line he's read in a book in many years popped up in a story by James Thurber. It was the report of a reassuring remark made by a psychiatrist to a long-time patient: "You need worry no longer about having an inferiority complex, Mr. Griswold. You ARE inferior."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Is there any truth that full dentures can now be made to fit perfectly with magnets?

Many full dentures can be made to fit without special gadgets. They are used very effectively and almost meet all the requirements of one's own teeth for chewing and appearance.

Sometimes, especially in the elderly, the gum margins become small, thin and lose their supporting structure. When this happens the dentures slide, become unmanageable and uncomfortable.

In an effort to remedy these poorly fitting dentures a great many devices have been tried including chemicals, rubber composites and adhesive powders. Most of these are completely safe but have only little value to some people and certainly not to everyone.

Dental surgeons are remarkably ingenious and are constantly devising brilliant new techniques for their patients. Dr. Manuel Gottlieb of New York City recently described to me a method by which dentures were satisfactorily kept in place with the use of magnets.

The way they work is particularly interesting. I am certain that all my readers have seen a child's toy in which magnets keep tiny dolls separated because of the opposing forces of the magnets.

This is the same principle that is used in these dentures. The opposing magnets force the dentures apart and thus keep them in a moderately well-fixed position, without the use of any adhesives.

Dental cases must be carefully chosen before the magnets are tied. The dental surgeon is in the best position to carefully evaluate the advantages of this technique in every individual case.

How can scarring of the face be prevented in children who have acne?

Most cases of adolescent acne disappear and leave few, if any, pits, depressions and scars if the skin of the face is not roughly handled. The embarrassment and psychological scars heal kindly, too, if children are patient and are given the emotional support they need during this critical period.

When the pustules of the face are squeezed, infections may spread and leave disfigurement of the skin.

The simple rules of cleanliness, using mild soaps and plenty of hot water application are far more beneficial than all of the expensive "magical" lotions that are sold to the desperate teenager.

Acne is a very complicated skin disorder which is tied up with the hormone balance of the body, so precarious in the post-puberty period.

A teenager deserves the opinion of a skin specialist before she embarks on treatment with over-the-counter antibiotics and cortisone creams which may be dangerous.

The dermatologist can, in addition to psychological support, teach the youngster how to use makeup that will not clog the pores and complicate simple acne.

Medical facts are known to all doctors everywhere. Be wary of the person who has his own special private bit of medical information that is not accepted by everyone.

Rhodes' Creative Localism

By John Chamberlain

Governor George Romney of Michigan got back into the Presidential sweepstakes by his relatively hawkish Hartford, Connecticut, speech, and thereby deflated the underdog Nelson Rockefeller boom. But handsome George still has a long way to go. The probability, as Barry Goldwater said the other Sunday, is that Romney and Nixon will move into the convention with 400 votes each. The rest of the votes will be in the pockets of the favorite sons.

So the control of the convention could be in the hands of three particularly powerful favorites from California, Texas and Ohio. The trend could rid the determination of California's Governor Reagan, Texas's Senator Tower, and Ohio's Governor Rhodes. If they stick together, they could own the future.

People have heard a lot about Reagan and Tower, but outside of Ohio they know little about Rhodes. In his own state, as I learned last week on a trip to Youngstown, Rhodes is considered a mighty man. They say that he has already done for Ohio what Reagan has promised to do for California.

Rhodes is credited with cleaning up the financial mess dating from the Mike Di Salle era. And now quietly, he is trying to find a way of keeping money in the state for publicly approved purposes without waiting for Washington to end the apparently interminable debate on whether the U. S. Treasury should pass back a percentage of federally collected taxes to the various state capitals.

One Rhodes' proposition is to permit counties and municipalities to issue tax-exempt revenue bonds for approved industrial and business developments. Local improvement corporations would be created to carry out the projects, and public officials who wish to participate either by ownership or contracting would be exempted from the present state conflict-of-interest laws. The reason for the exemption is that in small communities that have part time mayors and councilmen the public officials are often the leading enterprisers. Without their participation, nothing in some small communities would move.

By using the tax-exempt bond device for improvement corporations, Ohio would, in effect, be getting money from Washington by the simple expedient of withholding it at the source. The Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Fowler, with an eye on his own federal balance sheet, frowns on the extension of such practices.

Inasmuch as the federal government has a host of past projects still to pay for, Mr. Fowler's worries are understandable. But a proliferation of local developments in Ohio would certainly help take that state off Washington's neck. Governor Rhodes has offered creative localism as an offset to creative federalism, and if creative localism there would be less need for federal tax sharing with the states.

Governor Rhodes doesn't go in for ideological pronouncements, and so he has escaped being placed in the Left-Right spectrum. But his actions stamp him as a pragmatic conservative. By making use of revenue bonds to start new projects, Governor Rhodes would take both the local taxpayer and Washington, D. C., off the hook. This is quite in line with the thinking that undergirds Ronald Reagan's Creative Society. But in Ohio they don't have any fancy name for it. The Buckeye State might call it Creative Localism (capital letters, please) and take it from there.

The predictions are that of Romney and Nixon became deadlocked in the 1968 convention, Senator Percy of Illinois—or, possibly, New York's Nelson Rockefeller—will be the choice of the smoke-filled rooms. But if the economic and social thinking of Rhodes, Reagan, and Senator Tower of Texas should prove stronger than the temptation to make political deals, the next Republican nominee will surely not be a Big Government liberal. If a compromise choice is necessary to break a Nixon-Romney standoff, it could very well be Governor Rhodes himself. By keeping clear of labels, and showing what can be done by local initiative without talking ideology, he has avoided making the enemies that Reagan and Tower have made. Yet, since the pudding's proof is still in the eating, Rhodes could be very acceptable to Tower and Reagan followers.

The word from Ohio is "watch Rhodes." He could be a most available Dark Horse, carrying the colors of Creative Localism into the race.

Girl-Watching Society Lays Down Its Guidelines

NEW YORK (AP) — It's molting season for both birds and girls and so the American Society of Girl Watchers issued guidelines Tuesday for its 5,000 members.

They are:

Don't ogle.

When passing a girl going the same direction, don't turn the head around and stare.

Don't use binoculars — except at races.

Don't whistle, pinch, whisper or commit any other overt act.

Maintain eye-ball control at all times.

"We don't have any particular season," said Don Sauers of Eastchester, N.Y., founder of the society. "In fact, some of our best card-carrying members think ski pants in Vermont are sexier than bikinis in Miami or miniskirts in Los Angeles."

"But this is the molting season when the girls all take off their heavy over clothing and get closer to nature. Our spring season starts the middle of April. At this time Fifth Avenue —between 42nd Street and Central Park — becomes the girl watchers' paradise of the world."

The society started as a gag out of the head of Sauers and grew into an institution.

Sauers, 44, father of five, was sitting around at lunch with some Madison Avenue pals about 10 years ago and a hip-swinging miss swung by the window. Sauers was suddenly struck with an idea.

"Bird-watchers have their own organization — the Audubon Society. I suggested there are more girl watchers than bird watchers. Girls are more fun to watch. They all agreed."

The society now occupies quite lush, four-story headquarters on 38th Street just off Park Avenue. It has members in 451 states and several foreign countries.

It has its own guide book, authored by Sauers; its own theme song, "Music to Watch Girls By," a popular ditty used by a soft drink firm; a lapel pin, just like the Elks, and a nine-article constitution.

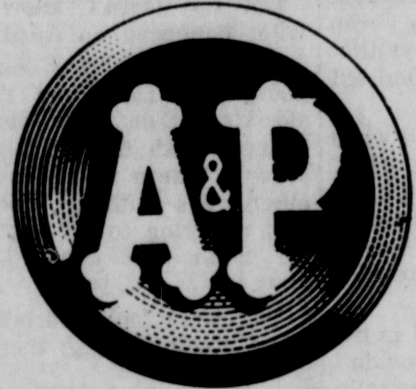

The society is an affiliate of the Professional Sports Management Corp. "After all, there is no greater sport than girl watching," says the current president, Ray Baur, 40, of Westport, Conn., father of six.

Sauers says the purpose of the organization is to improve the climate of girl watching.

"A survey shows that the girls, 100 per cent of them, like to be watched," the founder added.

Sauers said one of the rules is not to watch girls in restaurants. "That's like watching birds in a zoo," he said. "They should be watched in their natural habitat — walking on the streets."

Sad Events of Saturday Will Long Be Remembered

By MRS. MARION SINES
Saturday will long be remembered by the people of Circleville.

A book could be written about the many heroic acts of sons and husbands.

In one way or another each of us are affected by the bomb and fire. Bingman Drug Store was such a warm, friendly place, it will be greatly missed by the community.

Wardell's Carpet and Rug Store was another firm that made customers feel comfortable. Personnel there offered decorating advice freely. The quality of their merchandise and service was gratifying.

King's Department Store was another firmly established store. The firm displayed a wide variety of merchandise and many people enjoyed shopping there.

All of us are extremely sad about the useless loss of the five who died. This happening should give us all thoughts about the Mental Health Association. Perhaps by just a little assistance with this program women can help prevent things like Saturday's tragedy.

The man who carried the bomb evidently needed more help than he was receiving. This does not mean that he was being neglected, because he was under care. However, more work is needed in this field.

Cooperation of the people of Circleville was so wonderful that enough thanks and praise cannot be given. The Red Cross did its usual efficient job, as it always does when needed. But there are so many who contributed in many ways that we probably never will find out about.

Most everything stopped when people learned of the fire. Businesses closed, housewives stopped what they were doing and everyone who wasn't helping actively seemed suspended in time.

The fire was uppermost in the minds of all. Tasks that couldn't wait were done automatically and people didn't even remember having done them.

Even after the fire was brought under control and the number of dead was known, the feeling of eeriness did not leave. Everyone except the workers talked quietly — even they only raised their voices when necessary.

The awesomeness was not felt by many until Monday morning when they attempted to resume their daily routine. It seemed to many that the air was heavy and our minds did not respond quickly.

When we have recovered from this disaster we should think about how we can help others, love our families more, enjoy being with them and caring for them.

Logan Elm GC Holds Meeting

Arrangements of spring flowers, made by each member was the feature event of the latest meeting of the Logan Elm Garden Club, held in the home of Mrs. Judson Beougher.

Luella Morris was awarded first prize for her arrangement, second was Alma McKenzie and third was a tie between Corilla Pontius and Donna Beougher.

An article "24 Hours, How Will You Use Them" by Gina Bell Zano, and another, "I Needed The Quiet" by Alice Hancher Mortenson, were read by Mrs. Beougher.

Roll call was answered with an article named from the Garden Path magazine.

The business session was in charge of Mrs. Beougher. A report on the meeting in Jackson in the First Methodist Church was given by Mrs. Neil Morris and Mrs. Beougher.

Mrs. Turney Pontius reported on the meeting held in the 4-H and Grange Building.

A trip to Marietta was discussed and plans were made to go May 11, the regular meeting day. Members will meet 8 a. m. in Laureville.

The chance gift was brought by Donna Beougher and won by Yvonne Drake. The next gift will be brought by the recipient.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Circle D Plans Meet

Circle D of the Presbyterian Women will meet 9 a. m. Thursday in the church lounge.

Earlham Student, 19, Faces Prison Term

CINCINNATI (AP) — An Earlham College student from Oxford, Ohio, faces a possible five years in prison and/or a $10,000 fine for refusing to report for induction into the armed services. Sentencing was deferred pending a probation investigation.

Timothy W. Zimmer, 19, was convicted Tuesday in U.S. District Court despite his argument the government had no right to order a person into "involuntary" service. About 75 faculty members and students from the Quaker college at Richmond, Ind., attended the trial to give Zimmer moral support.

Youth Relates School -Burning

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 17-year-old East Side boy said Tuesday he liked his days at Giddings Elementary School. He thought it was a good school and he bore no grudges against it or any of the teachers, past or present.

Yet on April 8, he and five other Giddings alumni played a major part in the destruction of their 77-year-old alma mater.

Asked why he did it, he could not say. He doesn't deny he sprayed gasoline around the school's basement. Nor does he deny he lit the match that started the fire.

But he doesn't know why. What happened on April 8?

"I was out with a couple of girls," he said. (Two 13-year-old East Side girls also are charged with the arson of the school. "There was a couple of other guys with us, too. (He was referring to three 15-year-old youths also charged Tuesday.)

"We were fooling around... doing nothing 'cause there was nothing to do."

"Then one of the girls says 'cause they didn't like it. I did."

n't go for the idea too much, but I went along with it. One of the girls got the gas.

"We all gave her our money and she got it from a gas station. They, me and another kid broke a window.

"Yeah, in the basement... near the janitor's room..."

"Somebody was there before us. Chairs all over the place and paper all around. The paper was wet. I don't know if it was water or gas. I didn't check.

"I heard a door slam. Sounded like it was upstairs... the second floor." (This confirmed investigators' theories that more than one group vandalized and set fires in the school. Police are attempting to find out if the groups worked independently or together.)

Then what happened?

"Me and... sprayed the gas around in the janitor's room. We threw some stuff around, then started the fire... I didn't stick around to watch.

Outside, I bumped into a guy. He was running, too. He weren't no part of our bunch. Never saw him before. He knocked me down 'cause he was running. He looked scared, too..."

Telling 'Rite' From Wrong Has Police Confused

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Students at Haverford and Bryn Mawr colleges are wondering whether the local police know the difference between "rite" and wrong.

Each May 1 the girls at Bryn Mawr dance around the maypoles in a traditional spring rite. And each year, in another spring rite, the boys at nearby Haverford sneak onto the Bryn Mawr campus, steal a couple of maypoles, then return them for kisses from the girls.

On Monday, lower Merion Township police arrested two Haverford students and charged them with stealing maypoles. Justice of the Peace Robert P. Johnson arraigned Jonathan Hubbell, 20, of New York, and Bruce Lincoln, 19, of Wyncote, Pa., on charges of burglary, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

They were turned over to Haverford College dean of men James Lyons to await a hearing Saturday.

Murder Charge Filed

CINCINNATI (AP) — A second-degree murder charge has been filed against James Poyntz, 39, of Cincinnati, in the shooting of John T. Faulkner, 39, early Tuesday. The two neighbors allegedly had quarreled.

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — Students at Haverford and Bryn Mawr colleges are wondering whether the local police know the difference between "rite" and wrong.

Valenti Aware of Need For American Film Institute

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Farsighted industry leaders have long nurtured the dream of an institute to develop new film makers and preserve the achievements of the past. That dream may finally be realized.

Many European countries have film institutes which perform such functions. This is particularly true in the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and other Communist nations where the film industry is run by the government and movie workers are paid to learn their crafts.

The free enterprise system of the American movie industry has long overlooked the training of talent. There always seemed to be enough to go around.

Not any more. The imaginative, pace-setting films are now coming from London, Paris, Rome, Stockholm, Prague — not Hollywood. Many movie leaders are concerned about it. Jack Valenti, new president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, announced at the beginning of his tenure that one of his major aims would be to bring new creative blood into the business. He sees the American Film Institute as a major instrument in achieving it.

"I believe the A.F.I. is worthy of being born," he said in an interview during a recent visit here. "I see it as the bridge over which the young untested film maker can enter into the industry."

Valenti reported some progress has been made. The National Committee on the Arts has been studying the proposal, and Stanford Research Institute has returned a survey on feasibility. Gregory Peck, who has chairmanned Hollywood backing for an A.F.I., has reported satisfaction with the Stanford report.

"The government has offered $1,300,000 on a matching basis," said Valenti. "Now we are studying ways of meeting that amount. We are talking to several foundations about the possibility of backing the A.F.I., and to the film companies as well."

NICHOLAS DRIVE

Nicholas Drive PTA had its last meeting for this school year Thursday.

After a brief business meeting, opened by Don Schiewetz, officers for next year were elected. They are: Dr. and Mrs. Howard Davies, chairmen; Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Lippert, co-chairman, Mrs. George Schenck, secretary and Mrs. Richard Fox, treasurer.

Robert Lund then spoke in favor of the forthcoming school levy to be voted on May 2. He pointed out that as a small town, Circleville is a healthy place in which to raise children and while it is surrounded by many parks, it is also in easy reach of metropolitan amenities.

He said a tax increase of only $15 to $25 would be involved if the levy passes.

As to the consequences of a failure to pass the levy, he referred to the Example at Versailles, O., where the schools had to close because of lack of funds.

He enumerated reasons for a negative vote. "We hear," he said, "what was good enough for me is good enough for my children. One only has to look at the advances made in technology over the past five years to realize that this cannot be a valid argument, he added.

Lund pointed out that the Circleville School System spend an unusually high 90 per cent of its budget on teaching salaries and praised the effective business leadership.

He asked each person to carefully examine his position with regard to the levy. "We have no room for apathy and we can't maintain the status quo. The voters have to decide whether we step forward or backward," he asserted.

Chairman Schiewetz announced that the Nicholas Drive PTA Executive Committee had given its vote of confidence in favor of the levy. He asked to members, signatures on a resolution supporting the levy.

George Marshall presented program of music featuring the 5th and 6th grades. The 5th and 6th grade band performed.

The band played the "Jet Pilot March", followed by a piece in parts which Mr. Marshall explained was to develop a sense of harmony. They then played "The Army March" and finished their program with the "Varsity Waltz" and the "Victors March."

In addition to the half hour weekly practice at Nicholas Drive, the band meets each Friday at the Junior High School with some 180 other elementary school band members from the Circleville Schools. "It's quite a sound," Marshall said. For the first time in the history of the Circleville Schools we have had an adequate music program with two faculty members he pointed out.

In addition to the beginning band, there is a Junior High band with 140 members and a Senior High band with 62 members with an increase of about 30 expected for next year. H pointed out that music education is necessary for a well rounded educational program.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Carl Heffelfinger thanked her library committee who, with Mrs. Alfred Porck, co-chairwoman, had made the Nicholas Drive Schools Library an outstanding success this year. Members on the committee were Mrs. H. Whitfield, Mrs. E. Tatum, Mrs. J. Alkire, Mrs. W. Smith, Mrs. M. Williams, Mrs. J. Hughes, Mrs. E. Lippert, Mrs. W. Curtis and Mrs. J. Keenan.

Valenti Aware of Need For American Film Institute

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Farsighted industry leaders have long nurtured the dream of an institute to develop new film makers and preserve the achievements of the past. That dream may finally be realized.

Many European countries have film institutes which perform such functions. This is particularly true in the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and other Communist nations where the film industry is run by the government and movie workers are paid to learn their crafts.

The free enterprise system of the American movie industry has long overlooked the training of talent. There always seemed to be enough to go around.

Not any more. The imaginative, pace-setting films are now coming from London, Paris, Rome, Stockholm, Prague — not Hollywood. Many movie leaders are concerned about it.

Jack Valenti, new president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, announced at the beginning of his tenure that one of his major aims would be to bring new creative blood into the business. He sees the American Film Institute as a major instrument in achieving it.

"I believe the A.F.I. is worthy of being born," he said in an interview during a recent visit here. "I see it as the bridge over which the young untested film maker can enter into the industry."

Dr. Carlson Film Slated At Church

The "Paul Carlson Story" will be shown at the Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union 7 p. m. Saturday.

Rev. Allen Gallimore, pastor, invites the public to see this film and attend the Missionary Convention, April 21-23. The entire program of the convention will be in the Friday Church News.

On November 24, 1964, world attention was drawn to the name of Paul Carlson. In the last weeks of his life he became a 20th century symbol of courage and dedication. He was killed in the Stanleyville (Congo) massacre.

Dr. Carlson spent years in becoming an outstanding surgeon. Sacrifice and devotion to medicine had prepared him not only for a life of service to his fellow man, but also for a life of economic security.

However, Dr. Carlson had learned at an early age, that his life was not his own. He felt it had been purchased by the living God who desires to exhibit His love through believers in the Lord Jesus Christ.

This inspiring story of God's love, meeting the spiritual and medical needs of the people of the Congo through Dr. Carlson, has now been made into a 53 minute, color film considered one of the great missionary films of our times, according to Rev. Allen Gallimore.

Beginning with a dramatic statement of the claims of the mission fields upon the Christian doctor, and concluding with a widow's prayer with her children, the film makes a stirring impact upon every viewer, Rev. Gallimore said.

Billy Zeoli, president of Gospel Films, Inc., said: "In the production of this film, the Evangelical Covenant Church of America has made a contribution of magnificent proportions to the cause of Christ everywhere, we are thrilled to have a part in the ministry of this film."

As the critics get louder, some people have come to think he should pull the pieces together to choose the government they want through broad elections, although they are moving in that direction.

But one of the steady, although perhaps often unnoticed, themes in the speeches of Johnson himself is this country's philosophy behind its decision to stop Communist aggression and expansion.

The philosophy is simply stated: to prevent the Reds from taking over all Southeast Asia. This can be called a selfish American reason, and to a degree it is.

This country knows it couldn't survive in a world controlled by communism. Another part of the reasoning is that if the effort isn't made to stop Red aggression wherever it occurs, then there is nothing to stop it anywhere.

In his speech to the Tennessee Legislature March 15, Johnson made the point: "...if we were prepared to stay the course in Vietnam, we could help to lay the cornerstone for a diverse and independent Asia, full of promise and resolute in the cause of peaceful economic development for her long-suffering people."

And he added: "If we faltered, the forces of chaos would be seen victory and decades of strife and aggression would stretch endlessly before us. The choice was clear. We would stay the course. And we shall stay the course."

But this reasoning seems to get blurred in the sound of critical thunderclaps—or bleatings, depending on the vein—booming across the country because of the American involvement.

That the American concern about Red aggression, and the need to stop it, is real and neither a myth nor limited to American thinking, was illustrated Tuesday at the 12th annual meeting of the foreign ministers of the eight-nation alliance, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization created in 1954.

It was intended to be a cooperative effort by the Southeast Asians against any Communist effort to take them over. But there was bitter complaint about the Red danger.

SEATO's failure to do what it was supposed to do.

Thanat Kohman, foreign minister of Thailand blamed SEATO for its "inaction and impotency" in meeting early crises after its formation and said this encouraged the Communists to their "boldest adventure in South Vietnam."

Right now, he said, Red guerrillas are trying to dominate Thailand. At the same time Jesus Vargas, SEATO's secretary general, said Red subversion and terror tactics have recently become intense in the Philippines.

These realities, which are confirmation of Johnson's reasoning, are likely to be forgotten in the day by day emotionalism over the war.

Right now, he said, Red guerrillas are trying to dominate Thailand. At the same time Jesus Vargas, SEATO's secretary general, said Red subversion and terror tactics have recently become intense in the Philippines.

These realities, which are confirmation of Johnson's reasoning, are likely to be forgotten in the day by day emotionalism over the war.

Ohio Legislature

Retired Teachers May Benefit from New Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Retired teachers desiring to do substitute work would get a big break under a House-passed bill up for a vote today in the Ohio Senate.

The measure would increase from 59 to 100 the minimum number of days they may teach each year without losing some of their retirement benefits.

Sponsors, including Rep. Mark C. Schinnerer R-49 Lakewood, Cuyahoga, explained that teachers doing such work would be prohibited from making further contributions to the teachers' retirement system for the purpose of accumulating additional benefits. Teachers would work at pay rates set for substitutes instead of their old salaries.

The Ohio Department of Education supported the bill which it said would help school districts meet a shortage of qualified teachers and at the same time permit retired teachers to supplement their income.

Ohio's credit union laws and persons whose property is appropriated for highway purposes would be affected under measures approved Tuesday by the House and Senate, respectively.

Five bills were introduced in the two chambers.

In other developments, the Senate Ways and Means Committee recommended passage of a proposed constitutional change to allow the lawmakers to vote themselves immediate pay raises while in office.

The amendment would permit the legislature to vote immediate boosts also for all public officials whose salaries are fixed by the legislature.

Under the constitution now, pay raises voted by the legislature do not become effective until the next term of the office involved so that any legislator voting for an increase must be re-elected to benefit from it.

Sen. Harry Armstrong R-17 Hocking sponsored the proposal which would have to be approved by three-fifths majorities of both houses and subsequently by the voters in the November election.

The House voted 94-0 for a bill by Rep. Howard A. Knight R-13 Sandusky which would revise laws covering 1,400 credit unions in Ohio for the first time since they were enacted 18 years ago.

Knight told the house sweeping changes are needed for the fast-growing credit unions with 950,000 members to operate successfully. The measure now goes to the Senate.

The Senate voted without dissent to permit property owners to withdraw 100 per cent instead of 88 per cent of the deposit made by the Highway Department in land appropriation cases. Such deposits now are placed with courts pending final settlement and adjustment resulting from jury awards.

Sen. William W. Taft R-26 Cleveland, Cuyahoga, said the new arrangement would permit property owners to obtain their money immediately for possible reinvestment and would also do away with interest the department has to pay on deposits pending final settlement.

Spy Count Unchallenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newspaper's report that a top Soviet military intelligence official now is assigned to the Soviet Embassy in Washington has gone unchallenged by the State Department.

A department spokesman said Monday U.S. entry permits have been issued to Vasily Vladimirovich Kuznetsov and Nikolai Fedorovich Vinogradov.

The New York Daily News said "Kuznetsov" really was Gen. Vasily V. Mozshechikov, a top official of the Soviet military intelligence organization, the KGB.

The News also identified Vinogradov as a general and an associate of Mozshechikov.

Robert McCloskey, State Department press officer, confirmed that Kuznetsov and Vinogradov had received U.S. visas to enter the United States. He said they were traveling on diplomatic passports.

He refused to comment on whether the men were spies — or on any other aspect of the News report.

Rocky Hardest Man To Defeat, Moyer Believes

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill D. Moyers, who served President Johnson as White House press secretary, thinks Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York would be the "most difficult" Republican candidate for Johnson to beat in 1968.

Rockefeller would give Johnson "the toughest time," Moyers said, because the governor could take away some of the Negro and moderate votes Johnson won in 1964 when his opponent was Barry Goldwater.

Moyers, speaking Monday night at a meeting of the Society of Silurians, an organization of veteran newspapermen, predicted that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey would again be Johnson's running-mate. A ticket of Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., would not be in either's interest, he said.

Moyers left the White House earlier this year to become publisher of Newsday, a Long Island daily newspaper.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former mental patient Ralph Miller, 31, captured after a siege of his home in suburban Madisonville, remained hospitalized today.

Police went to Miller's home Tuesday when a neighbor reported Miller had fired several shots in his back yard. Police said Miller fired three shots at officers, surrendering 40 minutes later after several tear gas shells were lobbed into his home. No one was injured.

Laborite MP Demands CIA Study Made

LONDON (AP) — Laborite members of Parliament demanded Tuesday an investigation into allegations that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had intervened in British Guiana now Guyana, to overthrow the government of Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan, a leftist, in 1964.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson, sidestepping the demands, said that Guyana was now self-governing and the British government had no responsibility. He added that he was not responsible for events before October 1964.

"I know of no activities of this kind in British administrative territories," he said.

The issue was raised by Laborite Stan Newens who asked if Wilson would make a statement on his policy toward efforts by the CIA and other U.S. intelligence organizations to infiltrate and influence organizations which function in British-administered territories for purposes of subversion of law and order.

The Sunday Times said last weekend that its investigations showed that the downfall of Jagan in the colony of British Guiana was largely engineered by the CIA.

It claimed that for more than five years, the CIA paid out something over $700,000 through the London-based international trades union secretariat, the Public Services International.

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — That old GI bugaboo, KP, has been banished from this base.

"Enlisted personnel," said an Air Force announcement, "will no longer be required to perform this (kitchen police) duty. Civilian mess attendants are being hired."

In a classic understatement, the notice added: "This is a duty that most consider distasteful."

Gas Company Starts Work On Pipeline

Work has started on an $845,000 Ohio Fuel Gas Co. pipeline project that will improve natural gas service to Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., customers in Circleville and several other communities in Pickaway, Fairfield, Madison and Clarke Counties.

Ohio Fuel supplies natural gas to Columbia of Ohio and other gas companies in Ohio. Both firms are part of the Columbia Gas System.

C. R. Baker, Circleville manager for Columbia of Ohio, said more than nine miles of new pipeline — 18 inches in diameter — are being constructed to replace 22 sections of an existing pipeline that extends from Ohio Fuel's Crawford Compressor Station at Sugar Grove (Fairfield County) to Centerville (Montgomery County).

Sections being replaced are between Sugar Grove and Mt. Sterling Baker said. The pipeline, 92 miles long, also delivers gas to Dayton Power & Light Co., Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co., Williamsport and Tarleton for use by their customers.

Ohio Pipeline Construction Co., Newark, is making the replacement for Ohio Fuel. A Dale Apple, Sugar Grove, division foreman for Ohio Fuel's Pipelines Department, is supervisor and James Holcomb, Sugar Grove, is chief inspector for the gas company.

Work is expected to be completed by June 1, Baker said.

Firm Honors 10 Employees

Ten employees of John W. Eshelman & Sons, local feed manufacturers, have been awarded certificates and service pins by D. J. Carpenter, manager of the Circleville plant.

Twenty-five year pins were awarded to Martin O. Chaffin, Albert C. Spangler and Herbert E. Justice. Others receiving pins were Eugene C. Gilder-sleeve, Thomas Houghton and Charles A. Lawson for 20 years; Richard C. Behmer and Ross T. Downing for 15 years.

Two receiving pins are sales representatives. They are E. A. Pancake of Huntington, W. Va., 20 years and Barton H. Renner of Orrville, O., 10 years.

U.S. Snooper Service Is Diverse

WASHINGTON (TP) — Your only contact with U.S. intelligence agencies may be when a st-lookng man flashes imposing credentials at you and asks for information about a fellow who's looking for a government job.

A lot is heard about FBI sleuths and CIA cloak and dagger men, but the average citizen is a lot less likely to meet one of these in the flesh than an investigator for the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Each year commission investigators contact 2.5- 3.5-million Americans either by letter or in person. Their aim: to determine whether persons who want to go on the federal pay roll have good records.

The commission's task is a vast one — it conducts certain types of investigations for the entire federal service. One type is called "national agency check and inquiry."

This falls into two parts:

1. A check of FBI fingerprint files, the commission's own files — which contain 10 million card records of past probes — the files of the Army, Navy, Air Force or Coast Guard, and the House Committee on Un-American activities "as appropriate."

2. Written inquiries to former employees, colleges or universities attended, law enforcement agencies of the applicant's home town, State Department files if the person has been abroad, immigration service if he is an alien or naturalized citizen.

But suppose the applicant is trying for a job designated as "sensitive" — one in which he could have "a material adverse effect on the national security" if he went wrong. Then he must be subjected to a "full field investigation."

This includes, among other things, personal interviews with present and former employers, supervisors, fellow workers, references, neighbors, school authorities.

But in some cases the commission turns over the task of full field investigation to the FBI. These are cases where a preliminary probe turns up "derogatory information regarding matters such as sabotage, espionage, treason, sedition, membership in or affiliation with subversive organizations, unauthorized disclosure of security information, or refusal to testify on loyalty matters before a congressional committee."

The names of the other federal investigative agencies are legion. There is, of course, the Secret Service, assigned to only two tasks: protecting the President and vice president and combatting counterfeiters.

The Army, Navy and Air Force each has its own intelligence agency. So do the State, Post Office, Agriculture and Treasury departments. Under the latter come the checkup boys of the Internal Revenue Service, nemesis of many an income tax dodger.

As for the Central Intelligence Agency, the U.S. government "coordinating the intelligence manual says its purpose is activities of the several government departments and agencies in the interest of national security."

Further down in its description of the CIA's role, the manual speaks cryptically of "additional services of common concern." How broadly this mandate has been interpreted in the past is attested by recent headlines.

The agency least visible to the public is the National Security Agency, located at Ft. Meade, Md. Its employees, reported to number 10,000, are said to be under mandate to decline to tell anybody even where they work. It's a global intelligence oper-

U.S. Snooper Service Is Diverse

WASHINGTON (TP) — Your only contact with U.S. intelligence agencies may be when a man flashes imposing credentials at you and asks for information about a fellow who's looking for a government job.

A lot is heard about FBI sleuths and CIA cloak and dagger men, but the average citizen is a lot less likely to meet one of these in the flesh than an investigator for the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Each year commission investigators contact 2.5-3.5-million Americans either by letter or in person. Their aim: to determine whether persons who want to go on the federal pay roll have good records.

The commission's task is a vast one — it conducts certain types of investigations for the entire federal service. One type is called "national agency check and inquiry."

This falls into two parts:

1. A check of FBI fingerprint files, the commission's own files — which contain 10 million card records of past probes — the files of the Army, Navy, Air Force or Coast Guard, and the House Committee on Un-American activities "as appropriate."
2. Written inquiries to former employees, colleges or universities attended, law enforcement agencies of the applicant's home town, State Department files if the person has been abroad, immigration service if he is an alien or naturalized citizen.

But suppose the applicant is trying for a job designated as "sensitive" — one in which he could have "a material adverse effect on the national security" if he went wrong. Then he must be subjected to a "full field investigation."

This includes, among other things, personal interviews with present and former employers, supervisors, fellow workers, references, neighbors, school authorities.

But in some cases the commission turns over the task of full field investigation to the FBI. These are cases where a preliminary probe turns up derogatory information regarding matters such as sabotage, espionage, treason, sedition, membership in or affiliation with subversive organizations, unauthorized disclosure of security information, or refusal to testify on loyalty matters before a congressional committee.

The names of the other federal investigative agencies are legion. There is, of course, the Secret Service, assigned to only two tasks: protecting the President and vice president and combatting counterfeiters.

The Army, Navy and Air Force each has its own intelligence agency. So do the State, Post Office, Agriculture and Treasury departments. Under the latter come the checkup boys of the Internal Revenue Service, nemesis of many an income tax dodger.

As for the Central Intelligence Agency, the U.S. government "coordinating the intelligence manual says its purpose is activities of the several government departments and agencies in the interest of national security."

Further down in its description of the CIA's role, the manual speaks cryptically of "additional services of common concern." How broadly this mandate has been interpreted in the past is attested by recent headlines.

The agency least visible to the public is the National Security Agency, located at Ft. Meade, Md. Its employees, reported to number 10,000, are said to be under mandate to decline to tell anybody even where they work. It's a global intelligence operation, with accent on electronics. It tries to break other government's codes, and prevent them from breaking ours.

Astronauts Will Trust Apollo - With Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — An astronaut spokesman says spacemen will have full confidence in their Apollo craft — when changes are made to prevent a recurrence of the launch pad blaze that killed three of their fellow astronauts.

“We’re confident in our management, our engineering and ourselves,” said Col. Frank Borman, one of five astronauts who testified Monday night before congressmen investigating the Jan. 27 Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

He said they are eager to get on with the program to land men on the moon.

Borman told the Congressmen, “I think the question really is: Are you confident in us?”

The congressmen clearly are. But they — and the astronauts — expressed some reservations.

Testifying with Borman at the start of the second week of congressional hearings on the accident were Donald K. Slayton, Navy Capt. Walter R. Schirra Jr. and Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt. They appeared before a House subcommittee that oversees the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

While the astronauts had no doubts that the causes of the fire could be overcome, they indicated there may be future dangers that cannot be anticipated.

Slayton, now director of flight crew operations, testified “I know of absolutely no case when we’ve compromised crew safety — knowingly.”

But he said, “Obviously we may be doing so right now without knowing it.”

Speaking frankly and in their own colorful language, the astronauts readily admitted they had failed to realize the hazard involved in the Jan. 27 tests.

“It’s obvious that we goofed,” said Schirra. Slayton said it was his responsibility to call off the tests on the spot if anything was wrong “but I wasn’t that smart and we didn’t.”

The fire took the lives of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Shepard, the nation’s first man in space, said all five astronauts had read the April 2 final report of an Apollo accident review board and agreed with its findings.

All said they agreed that Grissom had nothing to do with starting the fire.

In earlier testimony, an official of North American Aviation Inc. — prime contractor for the spacecraft — said it had been considered possible Grissom might have kicked a wire, causing a spark.

Borman produced photographs of tests conducted Feb. 28 in which, he said, the astronauts determined that Grissom could not have kicked the wire in question.

The review board concluded that the most probable cause

NASA Is Accused Of Suppression Of Apollo Facts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman probing the Apollo fire charged today the spacecraft's contractor didn't correct problems cited in a report he says space officials are suppressing.

"Why are they hiding it?" asked Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., member of a subcommittee that keeps watch on the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "NASA should not try to keep the full facts from the American people."

Ryan said a summary of the so-called Phillips report "found insufficient competence in key management and technical positions" at North American Aviation, Inc., 16 months before the tragic fire.

Ryan said in the interview that "on the basis of the summary of the Phillips report and the findings of the Apollo review board, in my opinion it is apparent that North American never did correct the problems that were identified by Gen. Phillips."

North American built the spacecraft in which three astronauts died during launch pad tests at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Jan. 27.

The Phillips report consists of notes made by Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, Apollo program director for NASA, on a study he made at North American's plant in December 1965.

Ryan said Phillips' findings—as indicated in the summary of his report—coincide so closely with the deficiencies found by a review board on the Apollo accident that it is "hard to believe that the deficiencies... did not contribute directly to the accident."

Ryan said "this makes it all the more imperative that a full report be made available."

Ryan asked NASA officials to submit the Phillips report for committee examination.

Subcommittee Chairman Olin A. Teague, D-Tex., told NASA officials during hearings last week that if they decided not to submit Phillips' "personal notes," they might submit a summary.

That summary, in a letter from NASA Administrator James Webb to Teague, was made available to Ryan Tuesday. Ryan said he will formally ask Teague to ask NASA for the full report.

In testimony before the Senate Space Committee, NASA's associate director for manned space flight, Dr. George E. Mueller, said space officials believe deficiencies cited in the Phillips report had nothing to do with the cause of the Apollo fire.

Phillips testified that when he made a re-study at North American in April 1966—about four months after the first—the firm had overcome some of the deficiencies and was making satisfactory progress toward eliminating the others.

Both the review board and Phillips found North American guilty of substandard workmanship, management, engineering and quality control.

In testimony to the House committee last week, the North American program manager for the Apollo project said his firm's procedures for quality control, safety checks and installation were satisfactory before the accident.

Dale Myers, the North American spokesman, said the company continually tries to improve its procedures, and that the Apollo accident had stimulated even greater efforts.

Novel Says 'The Probe' Is Fiction

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy "is fiction," Gordon Novel said Tuesday in a bylined account copyrighted by the Dayton Daily News.

In a story told to News reporter Robert Endicott, Novel said, "Garrison came up with this idea after the Warren Report came out and all the books against it were being written. Garrison sees this as putting him in Washington... big politics."

Novel, wanted by Garrison as a witness in the assassination inquiry and free on bond after his arrest in the Columbus area on a Louisiana charge of conspiracy to commit burglary, contended Garrison wants him returned to New Orleans because "I know too much about him."

"The whole Garrison investigation thing is fiction. I know the full story from working as the prosecutor's security chief."

Novel told again of being employed by both Garrison and Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen because of a device he invented to detect eavesdropping equipment.

At one point in the story, Novel said, "I think Garrison will expose some CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) operations in Louisiana." He did not amplify this statement in the News story.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Hubby Has One Key Too Many

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 22 and I am 19. Tony is in the service and he works with both fellows and girls.

A very cute girl has just been stationed in his department, and she gave him the key to her apartment. He said she gave it to him in case she ever needed some help.

Tony said he has never used the key and I believe him, but I still don't think it's right for a married man to have the key to a girl's apartment. We've quarreled about it a lot, but he still hasn't given it back. I have even threatened to leave him, but he says if I loved him and trusted him I would never do that. What should I do?

DISTURBED
DEAR DISTURBED: Tell Tony that if the girl "needs" help to call the police. And if that's not the kind of help she needs, to call a single man. Your husband has one key too many, and if he insists on keeping HERS, tell him to turn in the one that fits YOUR door.

DEAR ABBY: My son was recently married. His bride allowed me a limited number of guests as she wanted to stay within a budget.

Naturally, I invited only my closest relatives and friends, but I did invite one cousin whom I see often and am very friendly with. I did not invite her sister, however, because I hardly ever see her, and don't feel close to her at all.

Well, the cousin I invited did not attend. But she called me afterwards to say that she didn't come because she wanted to hurt me for not inviting her sister.

I think she was wrong. What do you think?

HURT
DEAR HURT: With a "friend" like your cousin, you don't need any enemies.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to give some advice to these teen-agers who think sex before marriage is O.K.

Believe me, it just doesn't work out. I was 17 when I let John talk me into it. I loved him so much, and he said he loved me, so we went right ahead, and were married two years later.

Now, after 30 years of married life I don't care whether I live or die. From the very first he accused me of having an affair with every man I spoke to—even our pastor. I finally quit going to church.

High School Girls Get Birth Control Pills

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore hospital provides birth control pills for the high school girl who is sexually involved with a number of boys or the girl who is often intimate with her steady boyfriend.

The providing of pills is a part of a program at Sinai Hospital which offers treatment of adolescent problems from acne to and through pregnancy.

The hospital describes the recipients of the birth control pills as "sexually active." Dr. Leon Gordis, a pediatrician at Sinai, said Tuesday about 60 girls have been referred to the program in the past four months.

"Essentially the experience of the adolescent center," said Gordis, "has shown that sexual activity is increasingly common and accepted among adolescents."

"Since the rate of teen-age pregnancy is so high and the consequences are so tragic, the new service was added to the center," he said.

Dr. Matthew Tayback, deputy health commissioner for Baltimore, said the program — believed the only one of its kind in the country — is aimed at the "extremely large number of pregnancies and live births among girls 16 and under."

"The teen-ager," said Gordis,

"is essentially unprepared for motherhood. An unwanted pregnancy is often a tragic event."

Gordis said the term "sexually active" was used because it would be unfair to presume that only promiscuous girls are involved, since some girls may date just one boy.

"Contraception," he continued, "is an important part, but only a part of a program of total health care."

Girls accepted into the program at the hospital's adolescent center may come from any part of the city and receive the pills only after intensive individual and group counseling and only with parental consent.

Some of the girls are referred to the program by parents worried about pregnancy, while others are referred by Public Health Service nurses, physicians, community health agencies and the city's maternity care center and venereal disease clinics.

Novel Says 'The Probe' Is Fiction

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy "is fiction," Gordon Novel said Tuesday in a bylined account copyrighted by the Dayton Daily News.

In a story told to News reporter Robert Endicott, Novel said, "Garrison came up with this idea after the Warren Report came out and all the books against it were being written. Garrison sees this as putting him in Washington . . . big politics."

Novel, wanted by Garrison as a witness in the assassination inquiry and free on bond after his arrest in the Columbus area on a Louisiana charge of conspiracy to commit burglary, contended Garrison wants him returned to New Orleans because "I know too much about him."

"The whole Garrison investigation thing is fiction. I know the full story from working as the prosecutor's security chief."

Novel told again of being employed by both Garrison and Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen because of a device he invented to detect eavesdropping equipment.

At one point in the story, Novel said, "I think Garrison will expose some CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) operations in Louisiana." He did not amplify this statement in the News story.

Hubby Has One Key Too Many

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 22 and I am 19. Tony is in the service and he works with both fellows and girls.

A very cute girl has just been stationed in his department, and she gave him the key to her apartment. He said she gave it to him in case she ever needed some help.

Tony said he has never used the key and I believe him, but I still don't think it's right for a married man to have the key to a girl's apartment. We've quarreled about it a lot, but he still hasn't given it back. I have even threatened to leave him, but he says if I loved him and trusted him I would never do that. What should I do?

High School Girls Get Birth Control Pills

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore hospital provides birth control pills for the high school girl who is sexually involved with a number of boys or the girl who is often intimate with her steady boyfriend.

The providing of pills is a part of a program at Sinai Hospital which offers treatment of adolescent problems from acne to and through pregnancy.

The hospital describes the recipients of the birth control pills as "sexually active." Dr. Leon Gordis, a pediatrician at Sinai, said Tuesday about 60 girls have been referred to the program in the past four months.

"Essentially the experience of he adolescent center," said Gordis, "has shown that sexual activity is increasingly common and accepted among adolescents."

"Since the rate of teen-age pregnancy is so high and the consequences are so tragic, the new service was added to the center," he said.

Dr. Matthew Tayback, deputy health commissioner for Baltimore, said the program — believed the only one of its kind in the country — is aimed at the "extremely large number of pregnancies and live births among girls 16 and under."

"The teen-ager," said Gordis,

"is essentially unprepared for motherhood. An unwanted pregnancy is often a tragic event."

Gordis said the term "sexually active" was used because it would be unfair to presume that only promiscuous girls are involved, since some girls may date just one boy.

"Contraception," he continued, "is an important part, but only a part of a program of total health care."

Girls accepted into the program at the hospital's adolescent center may come from any part of the city and receive the pills only after intensive individual and group counseling and only with parental consent.

Some of the girls are referred to the program by parents worried about pregnancy, while others are referred by Public Health Service nurses, physicians, community health agencies and the city's maternity care center and venereal disease clinics.

Indians Set For Opener At Home

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians were set to stage their home opener today using the same lineup as in their last two games, which they won.

That meant Rocky Colavito, whose popularity in Cleveland has never been questioned, would be on the bench again with Leon Wagner, Vic Davallio and Chuck Hinton making up the outfield.

The weather, with temperatures in the 50s and partly cloudy skies, figured to hold the crowd to around 25,000 as Joe Adcock made his debut as manager before the Cleveland fans.

Adcock said Tuesday, after the Indians had been rained out of a morning batting practice, that he planned no lineup changes.

Sonny Siebert, in first start of the season, was booked to pitch for the Tribe, Jim Nash for the Kansas City Athletics.

Nash, 12-1 as a rookie in 1966, already held a victory over the 1967 Indians, 4-3 in the season opener at Kansas City April 11.

That game was played under protest by Adcock because of Nash's white shoes, but American League President Joe Crain disallowed the protest Tuesday.

Siebert had been scheduled for an earlier start but a postponement ruined his chance.

"The best thing about pitching the home opener, or any opener, is that I'm finally getting started," he said Tuesday.

The 30-year-old right-hander had a 16-8 record last season, including the only no-hitter in the major leagues, and was voted the Indians' Man of the Year.

Clay Nearly Knocked Out By Courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casius Clay, unbeaten in the ring as the world heavyweight boxing champion but almost down and out in the courts, makes another appeal today to the U.S. Supreme Court in an attempt to prevent his induction into the Army in Houston April 28.

Clay's attorney, Hayden C. Covington of New York, said he would ask the nation's highest court to reverse its decision of Monday in which it denied the 25-year-old champion's request for an injunction to stop the induction.

Covington said he would file three separate briefs and if they all are turned down, there would be more appeals and possibly a new suit in Houston against the National Selective Service Board.

Clay is fighting his pending induction on various constitutional questions he has raised in lower courts.

In addition to losing his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court — which made its decision with no comment — he also lost a battle in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati which also turned down Monday his request for an injunction to halt the induction.

After the decisions were announced, Clay said he would appear at his scheduled induction and "stand on my religious beliefs."

Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, the name he took upon becoming a Black Muslim, said: "I will stand up for my religious beliefs even if it means I am put in jail for 50 years or am stood up in front of machine guns."

He said his religion forbids fighting and killing in wars. "I am ready to suffer for my religion and take any punishment. I pray five times a day and am calling on Allah."

Tigers Tame PHS Second Time, 6-3

The Circleville High School baseball team maintained its unblemished record Tuesday by defeating Pickerington, 6-3, in a return engagement played at Pickerington.

The game was scheduled Monday when a tilt with Teays Valley had to be postponed because of a conflict in the Vikings Metropolitan League schedule.

Don Cordle became the third pitcher for the Tigers to earn a decision. The hard throwing right handed sophomore whiffed 12 batters, issued four bases on balls and allowed only four hits.

Cordle went the route for the Tigers. A trio of hurlers shared the duties for the Pickerington nine. Coleman started, walking four, fanning two and allowing two hits.

HE WAS relieved by Smith who walked one, whiffed two and gave up one hit. Harris finished the game. He sent one

Illinois Honors 3 Ex-Coaches

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Three Illinois coaches fired for their parts in a $21,000 slush fund scandal were honored by the university Tuesday night and showered with gifts.

All three, Football Coach Pete Elliott, Basketball Coach Harry Combes, and his assistant, Howie Braun, received diamond wristwatches, star sapphire rings and portable television sets.

Elliott expressed his thanks to the 450 persons present and pointed out that the Big Ten Conference had two choices — making an example of the coaches or showing some human feeling toward people.

He commented, "I would rather be wrong helping people than right hurting them."

Combes said in his farewell speech that he was not bitter about the final result and didn't want to be singled out as a martyr.

The three new coaches hired after the Big Ten ordered the dismissal of Elliott, Combes and Braun attended the function and were wished success by their predecessors.

The newly hired mentors are Football Coach Jim Valek, Basketball Coach Harv Schmidt and his assistant, Dick Campbell.

Foss Predicts NFL-AFL Merger Won't Go Through

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Merger of the National Football League and the American Football League will never go through as originally planned, predicts former AFL Commissioner Joe Foss.

Foss, who headed the AFL from its inception in 1959 until his resignation seven years later, gave his views in an interview Tuesday. He was in Minneapolis for meetings of an insurance firm with which he now is associated.

The former commissioner and onetime South Dakota governor recalled the merger agreement made last summer included a joint draft and championship game.

"My understanding is that one negative vote from any member of the two leagues can stop the final agreement from being ratified before the 1970 season," Foss told Sid Hartman of The Minneapolis Tribune.

"The way I have it figured," he added, "the AFL would have to pay the NFL $27.5 million if the merger were to come off as planned. The NFL also will be paid for the 10th franchise in the AFL."

Vikings Lose 2-0 Shutout To Falcons

Shutout in the scoring column, the Teays Valley baseball team dropped a close 2-0 decision to Franklin Heights, Tuesday.

The Vikings were limited to four hits, all singles, by Falcon hurler John Landis. Landis fanned 11 and walked one.

John Beavers was the Viking hurler. Turning in an excellent performance on the mound, Beavers whiffed 10 and allowed only four hits. He gave up seven bases on balls.

Viking hits were by Bill Fridley, Jim Chapin, Mike Lombardo and Rex Gregg.

BOTH Franklin Heights run came in the fourth inning. The first man up for the Falcons walked, and stole second. He scored on a single to right field. The baserunner advanced to third on a double and scored on a walk.

The longest hit if the game was a triple by Rick Blount in the sixth inning.

The Vikings had a mild rally going in the fifth with two men on. But the runner at second was cut down trying to make it home on a single.

Teays Valley is 1-1 in the league. Franklin Heights has a 2-1 league record.

The Vikings host London to night and play at Whitehall Friday.

Warriors Win 130-124, Leaving 76ers 2-1 Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"We hope to even it up on Thursday night," declared San Francisco Warrior ace Rick Barry who pumped in 55 points to bring his club a 130-124 triumph over Philadelphia's 76ers.

The home court triumph at the Cow Palace on Tuesday night left Philadelphia leading 2-1 in the final playoff for the National Basketball Association championship.

Barry, Nate Thurmond, Jimmy King and little Al Attles were instrumental in keeping the Warriors in contention after Coach Alex Hannum's Eastern champs had won the first two games in the best-of-seven series.

"This is one of the best games Nate has played against Wilt Chamberlain the entire year," declared Warrior Coach Bill Sharman.

The 6-foot 11-inch Thurmond, suffering from a bruised hip suffered Sunday in Philly, scored 17 points and grabbed 25 rebounds to keep the 76ers from continuing their board superiority.

Chamberlain, the 7-1 star who makes San Francisco his home, was far from unnoticed. He led his club's scoring with 26 and had a like number of rebounds but it was a fight all the way.

King proved a major factor with 28 points and 9 rebounds and although statistics don't show it, Attles proved a demon on defense as he kept the big 76er gunners within bounds.

Mike Reid, Penn State's sophomore middle guard, made 63 unassisted tackles last season. He helped on 44 others.

Indians Set For Opener At Home

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians were set to stage their home opener today using the same lineup as in their last two games, which they won.

That meant Rocky Colavito, whose popularity in Cleveland has never been questioned, would be on the bench again with Leon Wagner, Vic Davalillo and Chuck Hinton making up the outfield.

The weather, with temperatures in the 50s and partly cloudy skies, figured to hold the crowd to around 25,000 as Joe Adcock made his debut as manager before the Cleveland fans.

Adcock said Tuesday, after the Indians had been rained out of a morning batting practice, that he planned no lineup changes.

Sonny Siebert, in first start of the season, was booked to pitch for the Tribe, Jim Nash for the Kansas City Athletics.

Nash, 12-1 as a rookie in 1966, already held a victory over the 1967 Indians, 4-3 in the season opener at Kansas City April 11.

That game was played under protest by Adcock because of Nash's white shoes, but American League President Joe Cronin disallowed the protest Tuesday.

Siebert had been scheduled for an earlier start but a postponement ruined his chance.

"The best thing about pitching the home opener, or any opener, is that I'm finally getting started," he said Tuesday.

The 30-year-old right-hander had a 16-8 record last season, including the only no-hitter in the major leagues, and was voted the Indians' Man of the Year.

Clay Nearly Knocked Out By Courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casius Clay, unbeaten in the ring as the world heavyweight boxing champion but almost down and out in the courts, makes another appeal today to the U.S. Supreme Court in an attempt to prevent his induction into the Army in Houston April 28.

Clay's attorney, Hayden C. Covington of New York, said he would ask the nation's highest court to reverse its decision of Monday in which it denied the 25-year-old champion's request for an injunction to stop the induction.

Covington said he would file three separate briefs and if they all are turned down, there would be more appeals and possibly a new suit in Houston against the National Selective Service Board.

Clay is fighting his pending induction on various constitutional questions he has raised in lower courts.

In addition to losing his appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court — which made its decision with no comment — he also lost a battle in the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati which also turned down Monday his request for an injunction to halt the induction.

After the decisions were announced, Clay said he would appear at his scheduled induction and "stand on my religious beliefs."

Clay, who prefers to be called Muhammad Ali, the name he took upon becoming a Black Muslim, said: "I will stand up for my religious beliefs even if it means I am put in jail for 50 years or am stood up in front of machine guns."

He said his religion forbids fighting and killing in wars.

"I am ready to suffer for my religion and take any punishment. I pray five times a day and am calling on Allah."

Circleville Boosters Meeting Scheduled

The Circleville High School Booster Club will meet 7:30 p. m. tonight at the High School cafeteria.

There will be an important business meeting. Parents of boys participating in track, baseball, and golf are cordially invited to attend.

Tigers Tame PHS Second Time, 6-3

The Circleville High School baseball team maintained its unblemished record Tuesday by defeating Pickerington, 6-3, in a return engagement played at Pickerington.

The game was scheduled Monday when a tilt with Teays Valley had to be postponed because of a conflict in the Vikings Metropolitan League schedule.

Don Cordle became the third pitcher for the Tigers to earn a decision. The hard throwing right handed sophomore whiffed 12 batters, issued four bases on balls and allowed only four hits.

Cordle went the route for the Tigers. A trio of hurlers shared the duties for the Pickerington nine. Coleman started, walking four, fanning two and allowing two hits.

HE WAS relieved by Smith who walked one, whiffed two and gave up one hit. Harris finished the game. He sent one

Illinois Honors 3 Ex-Coaches

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Three Illinois coaches fired for their parts in a $21,000 slush fund scandal were honored by the university Tuesday night and showered with gifts.

All three, Football Coach Pete Elliott, Basketball Coach Harry Combes, and his assistant, Howie Braun, received diamond wristwatches, star sapphire rings and portable television sets.

Elliott expressed his thanks to the 450 persons present and pointed out that the Big Ten Conference had two choices — making an example of the coaches or showing some human feeling toward people.

He commented, "I would rather be wrong helping people than right hurting them."

Combes said in his farewell speech that he was not bitter about the final result and didn't want to be singled out as a martyr.

The three new coaches hired after the Big Ten ordered the dismissal of Elliott, Combes and Braun attended the function and were wished success by their predecessors.

The newly hired mentors are Football Coach Jim Valek, Basketball Coach Harv Schmidt and his assistant, Dick Campbell.

Vikings Lose 2-0 Shutout To Falcons

Shutout in the scoring column, the Teays Valley baseball team dropped a close 2-0 decision to Franklin Heights, Tuesday.

The Vikings were limited to four hits, all singles, by Falcon hurler John Landis. Landis fanned 11 and walked one.

John Beavers was the Viking hurler. Turning in an excellent performance on the mound, Beavers whiffed 10 and allowed only four hits. He gave up seven bases on balls.

Viking hits were by Bill Fridley, Jim Chapin, Mike Lombardo and Rex Gregg.

BOTH Franklin Heights run came in the fourth inning. The first man up for the Falcons walked, and stole second. He scored on a single to right field. The baserunner advanced to third on a double and scored on a walk.

The longest hit if the game was a triple by Rick Blount in the sixth inning.

The Vikings had a mild rally going in the fifth with two men on. But the runner at second was cut down trying to make it home on a single.

Teays Valley is 1-1 in the league. Franklin Heights has a 2-1 league record.

The Vikings host London tonight and play at Whitehall Friday.

Foss Predicts NFL-AFL Merger Won't Go Through

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Merger of the National Football League and the American Football League will never go through as originally planned, predicts former AFL Commissioner Joe Foss.

Foss, who headed the AFL from its inception in 1959 until his resignation seven years later, gave his views in an interview Tuesday. He was in Minneapolis for meetings of an insurance firm with which he now is associated.

The former commissioner and onetime South Dakota governor recalled the merger agreement made last summer included a joint draft and championship game.

"My understanding is that one negative vote from any member of the two leagues can stop the final agreement from being ratified before the 1970 season," Foss told Sid Hartman of The Minneapolis Tribune.

"The way I have it figured," he added, "the AFL would have to pay the NFL $27.5 million if the merger were to come off as planned. The NFL also will be paid for the 10th franchise in the AFL."

"I can't believe that members of the AFL will ever agree to pay this money. There are numerous tax problems to overcome. I know that Sonny Werblin, owner of the New York Jets, is utterly opposed to paying anything. He may sell his franchise regardless."

CHS Grad Paces Wittenberg Golfers

SPRINGFIELD — Dick Patrick, Wittenberg University junior from Circleville, made his varsity golf debut a good one last Saturday when he shot a two-over par 73 to score three of Wittenberg's 10 points in the Tigers' opening match.

The former Circleville High school student scored a 41 on the front nine before blazing to a 32 on the back side for his 73 total. Patrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Patrick, 315 Wood Lane.

Cleveland Browns Open Against Dallas Cowboys

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns' schedule for next season will offer hometown fans a look at the National Football League's top rusher.

The 14-game schedule was announced Tuesday, with the Browns opening at home Sept. 17 against the Dallas Cowboys. The Chicago Bears are here Oct. 22 with running back Gayle Sayers, who led the rushers last season with 1,231 yards. Cleveland's Leroy Kelly was second with 1,141.

Chicago hasn't played at Municipal Stadium since 1960 and has met the Browns only four times since 1950 when Cleveland joined the NFL.

Other home games include Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Minnesota, Washington and New York. The Pittsburgh game is a Saturday night.

Minnesota, under new coach Bud Grant, has a top rookie runner in Clinton Jones of Cleveland, drafted second this year behind his Michigan State teammate, Bubba Smith, who went to the Baltimore Colts.

In preseason play, the Browns met Philadelphia at Canton Saturday night Aug. 5 and Green Bay in Cleveland as part of the annual doubleheader Sept. 2. Atlanta faces Minnesota in the other game.

With the addition of New Orleans as the 16th franchise, the NFL has been split into four divisions—the Capitol and Century divisions within the Eastern Conference and the Coastal and Central divisions in the Western Conference.

Cleveland is in the Century Division with New York, Pittsburgh and St. Louis. The Capitol Division includes Dallas, New Orleans, Philadelphia and Washington.

The Browns' schedule:

EXHIBITION — Aug. 5

(night), Philadelphia at Canton; Aug. 13, at San Francisco; Aug. 19 (night) at Los Angeles; Aug. 25 (night), at Atlanta; Sept. 2 (night) doubleheader, Atlanta vs. Minnesota and Cleveland vs. Green Bay in Cleveland; Sept. 10, at Minnesota.

REGULAR SEASON— Sept. 17, Dallas; Sept. 24, at Detroit; Oct. 1, at New Orleans; Oct. 7 (night), Pittsburgh; Oct. 15, St. Louis; Oct. 22, Chicago; Oct. 29, at New York; Nov. 5, at Pittsburgh; Nov. 12, Green Bay (at Milwaukee); Nov. 19, Minnesota; Nov. 26, Washington; Dec. 3, New York; Dec. 10, at St. Louis; Dec. 17, at Philadelphia.

Dec. 23— Western Conference playoff (Coastal vs. Central).

Dec. 24— Eastern Conference playoff (Capitol vs. Century).

Dec. 31 — NFL championship.

Dodgers Beat Reds, 7-2

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It has been six years since Claude Osteen escaped from Cincinnati and the Redlegs have regretted it ever since.

The 27-year-old lefthander has won 66 major league games in the meantime, the latest coming Tuesday night when the Los Angeles Dodgers finally broke into the win column by beating the Reds, 7-2.

Osteen pitched a strong first seven innings, knocked in the second Los Angeles run and then singled to start the rally that broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning.

If anything is to keep Cincinnati from winning the pennant this year it will be lack of pitching. It's something the Reds think about every time they face Osteen. Last year, they were never able to score more than three runs in the six games Claude started against them.

He beat them by 3-2, 1-0 and 4-3 margins in games here and notched a 6-1 triumph in a start in Cincinnati.

The two games he lost to the Reds were 3-1 and 2-1 heartbreakers.

The Reds let Osteen go to Washington in 1961. He became a 15-game winner for the Senators in 1964 before the big trade that sent him to Los Angeles. He was 15-15 and 17-14 for Dodger teams that won pennants the past two seasons.

Now because of Sandy Koufax' retirement he is the number one lefthander on the Los Angeles staff.

Dodger Manager Walter Alston sent Osteen home Tuesday night after a downpour suspended proceedings in the bottom of the seventh inning with the Dodgers leading, 3-2.

When play resumed, Cincinnati reliever Ted Abernathy walked three batters in a row to force in two runs. Two more scored on a pinch single by Jim Hickman.

Phil Regan pitched two scoreless innings in relief to give Osteen, 1-1, the victory over Cincinnati starter Milt Pappas, 1-1.

The Reds did their scoring early.

Tony Perez singled in the Reds' second, moved around to third on a bunt and a passed ball, and scored on Leo Carenas' sacrifice fly. Cincinnati tied it in the fourth on singles by Tommy Helms and Don Pavletich around a walk to Cardenas.

Don Sutton is to oppose Cincinnati's Sammy Ellis in the middle game of the series here tonight.

The University of Vermont football team set a school record last season by scoring 200 points in eight games.

Attention Focused On Library Week

National Library Week is now being observed here.

This is an annual custom sponsored by the National Book Committee in cooperation with the American Library Assn. The period April 16-22 has been proclaimed as such by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The theme, carried out with posters and bookmarks, is "Explore Inner Space."

A great deal is heard of the exploration of outer space. According to Miss Jessie Cummings, acting Pickaway County librarian, this special week reminds the American people that reading can help satisfy their need for knowledge, for leisure time activities and for inspiration.

Bookmobile Goes to Those Who Cannot Visit Library

By MRS. CAROL PHEGLEY
Bookmobile Librarian

In Pickaway County, if you can't go to the library, the library comes to you.

During the school year the pudgy green and yellow bookmobile stops regularly once a month at all the schools in the county, plus villages and trailer courts. In the summer, the unit is on a two week schedule serving community centers, villages, trailer courts and at crossroads to serve farm homes.

The summer schedule will be distributed around the first of May. The bookmobile will be waiting to serve readers.

Service in the county has been in existence since February, 1938. It was discontinued in February 1942 during the war years and started again in January 1948.

Circulation has steadily increased over the years. Last year the bookmobile put out a total of 79,256 books. A total of 11,050 books was circulated in March of this year.

The purpose of the bookmobile is to extend library service to those who are unable to come to the main library in Circleville. Distance, daytime jobs or illness prevent many people from getting to the city even though they pay taxes for library services.

The specialization makes the bookmobile a very individualistic kind of library. The collection is small but varied since it must serve many communities and all age and interest groups. For children, it carries enrichment material but not specifically educational textbooks and reference books.

Children seem to be most interested in science books, books on space and biographies. They are the biggest group of bookmobile goers and are often encouraged by their nonlibrary going parents.

Most school teachers encourage their pupils to read more. This is in addition to whatever books are available at the schools.

Most high schools have their own libraries but the bookmobile can supplement these to a good advantage, supplying needs for reports, special assignments and the like. Television did not curtail reading but rather encouraged more interhelp in making a speech, prepare a banquet or answer a puzzling question (did George Washington have a middle name?), Miss Cummings pointed out there are resources available at the public library for personal exploration.

As has been the custom of past years a special feature of the week is Free Day. All overdue books will be accepted Friday without payment of the usual penalty.

The local library is open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Monday through Thursday; 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Friday and Saturday.

There is a depository for books at the Pickaway St. entrance when the library is closed.

est in many varied subjects — thus reading has increased.

Current popular books and best sellers are favorites among adults. Those that bookmobile frequenters request are either bought by the library or can be borrowed from the main library in Circleville.

The book stock is also replenished by publications received on loan from the state library at Columbus.

Working on a bookmobile involves people as much as it does books. The librarians are on hand to answer questions and to help persons find what they want.

Librarians get used to seeing regular patrons at certain stops and can get to know their reading tastes.

The bookmobile is many things to many people and does serve a good purpose. People all over the county spend many hours entertaining themselves with a good variety of books.

You are invited to come see the bookmobile when it stops in your area.

Attention Focused On Library Week

National Library Week is now being observed here. This is an annual custom sponsored by the National Book Committee in cooperation with the American Library Assn. The period April 16-22 has been proclaimed as such by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The theme, carried out with posters and bookmarks, is "Explore Inner Space."

A great deal is heard of the exploration of outer space. According to Miss Jessie Cummings, acting Pickaway County librarian, this special week reminds the American people that reading can help satisfy their need for knowledge, for leisure time activities and for inspiration.

Bookmobile Goes to Those Who Cannot Visit Library

By MRS. CAROL PHEGLEY
Bookmobile Librarian

In Pickaway County, if you can't go to the library, the library comes to you.

During the school year the pudgy green and yellow bookmobile stops regularly once a month at all the schools in the county, plus villages and trailer courts. In the summer, the unit is on a two week schedule serving community centers, villages, trailer courts and at crossroads to serve farm homes.

The summer schedule will be distributed around the first of May. The bookmobile will be waiting to serve readers.

Service in the county has been in existence since February, 1938. It was discontinued in February 1942 during the war years and started again in January 1948.

Circulation has steadily increased over the years. Last year the bookmobile put out a total of 79,356 books. A total of 11,050 books was circulated in March of this year.

The purpose of the bookmobile is to extend library service to those who are unable to come to the main library in Circleville. Distance, daytime jobs or illness prevent many people from getting to the city even though they pay taxes for library services.

The specialization makes the bookmobile a very individualistic kind of library. The collection is small but varied since it must serve many communities and all age and interest groups. For children, it carries enrichment material but not specifically educational textbooks and reference books.

Children seem to be most interested in science books, books on space and biographies. They are the biggest group of bookmobile goers and are often encouraged by their nonlibrary going parents.

Most school teachers encourage their pupils to read more. This is in addition to whatever books are available at the schools.

Most high schools have their own libraries but the bookmobile can supplement these to a good advantage, supplying needs for reports, special assignments and the like. Television did not curtail reading but rather encouraged more interhelp in making a speech, prepare a banquet or answer a puzzling question (did George Washington have a middle name?), Miss Cummings pointed out there are resources available at the public library for personal exploration.

As has been the custom of past years a special feature of the week is Free Day. All overdue books will be accepted Friday without payment of the usual penalty.

The local library is open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Monday through Thursday; 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Friday and Saturday.

There is a depository for books at the Pickaway St. entrance when the library is closed.

est in many varied subjects — thus reading has increased.

Current popular books and best sellers are favorites among adults. Those that bookmobile frequenters request are either bought by the library or can be borrowed from the main library in Circleville.

The book stock is also replenished by publications received on loan from the state library at Columbus.

Working on a bookmobile involves people as much as it does books. The librarians are on hand to answer questions and to help persons find what they want.

Librarians get used to seeing regular patrons at certain stops and can get to know their reading tastes.

The bookmobile is many things to many people and does serve a good purpose. People all over the county spend many hours entertaining themselves with a good variety of books.

You are invited to come see the bookmobile when it stops in your area.
